

GOVT ORDER FALLS ON DEAF EARS

HSC admission fees too high in top city colleges

SURANJITH DEABNATH

Renowned colleges in the capital are charging up to Tk 25,000 as fees during admission of the intermediate students, ignoring the June 22 government circular that fixed Tk 152 as the regular fee for admission to the higher secondary educational institutions.

However, Tk 25 as group and subject migration fee, Tk 100 for study break and Tk 50 as late fee are to be paid in relevant cases in addition, making the highest possible admission fee Tk 327.

The Ministry of Education issued the circular stipulating the criteria for admission to the higher secondary level but students have to pay much higher fees for admission, especially to reputable government and non-government colleges.

The circular asked the colleges to complete the admission process by August 7 as classes will have to start from August 10.

All the colleges have already started admission process but no admission test will be held this year as the circular instructed enrolling the students on the basis of their Secondary School Certificate examination results.

The Daily Star correspondent visited around 20 well-known colleges in the capital and found that the authorities are charging extra money from the applicants under different heads including those for development fund, management cost and quality education.

According to the education ministry circular, Tk 60 for admission form, Tk 50 as registration fee, Tk 25 as sports fee, Tk 10 as scout fee, Tk 7 as science and technology fee -- in total Tk 152 -- is to be charged for a candidate's admission to the college.

The circular mentioned that Monthly Pay Order (MPO) of non-government colleges will be cancelled and legal action will be taken against the principal of a government college if the circular is not followed properly. But no action has yet been taken against any college on charge of violation of the government circular.

Terming non-compliance of the government direction for students' admission as a very alarming matter, Prof Nazim Uddin, director general of the Directorate of Secondary and Higher Education, said, "I will examine the allegation of government circular violation against the colleges. A monitoring cell should be formed for proper implementation of the order."

However, authorities of the renowned colleges said the admission fee fixed by the government is too small for them to follow. They proposed that the government arrange separate admission fees for government and non-government colleges.

Shahan Ara, principal of Motijheel Ideal School and College, said fixing the same admission fee for all the colleges is not justified. "Non-government colleges have to meet a lot of expenditure, in addition to the teachers' monthly salary. It is not possible to admit a student to my college only for Tk 327," she told The Daily Star.

Canada to shelter 73 Rohingya, 6 Somali refugees from Bangladesh

PORIMOL PALMA

The government of Canada has selected 73 Rohingya refugees from two camps in Cox's Bazar and six Somali urban refugees for resettlement in that country this year.

Canadian authorities and officials of the United Nations High Commissioner for the Refugees (UNHCR) selected the refugees from eight families after interviewing them in the first week of June, said Arakanese refugees' news agency in Bangladesh Narjiana News. A total of 14 families were shortlisted for the interviews.

Confirming the information, a government official said the Canadian High Commission in Dhaka has already sent a list of names of the selected refugees to the Ministry of Food and Disaster Management.

However, the official said the government is yet to approve the list, "but there is no reason for the government not to approve it."

The date for the departure of the refugees has not been decided yet.

The International Organisation for Migration will conduct an orientation session for the refugees and arrange medical tests for them before their departure for Canada.

The receiving country prioritises health and knowledge of English language, among other criteria, for resettlement of refugees, the official noted.

Canada resettled nine Rohingyas last year and 13 early this year.

There are also 27 urban refugees (who can move freely) from Iran, two from Sierra Leone, one from Afghanistan and 143 Buddhist refugees from Myanmar in Bangladesh.

Bangladesh has always lauded such resettlement of the Rohingya refugees from Cox's Bazar in Canada since these refugees are an addition to the already overpopulated country. There has also been no repatriation of the Rohingya refugees from the camps in the last two years.

Adviser for Expatriates' Welfare and Overseas Employment Iftekhar Ahmed Chowdhury at a recent seminar expressed concern over non-repatriation of the Rohingya refugees.

There are about 26,000 Rohingya refugees in the two camps at Kutupalong of Ukhiya upazila and Nayapara of Teknaf upazila in Cox's Bazar district.

Over 2.5 lakh Rohingyas entered Bangladesh from Arakan state of

US House votes for Iraq troop withdrawal

Iraq war can still be won, insists Bush

AFP, Washington

The US House of Representatives on Thursday passed a bill requiring a withdrawal of most combat troops from Iraq starting within 120 days, to be completed by April 1.

The House voted by 223 votes to 201 to pass the measure, in defiance of President George W. Bush, who has already vetoed a previous troop withdrawal timeline framed by the Democratic Party, and has pledged to do so again.

Four Republicans voted in favour of the plan, while 10 members of the majority Democratic Party voted against, on a day a new US government report offered a bleak snapshot of progress in Iraq.

House Democratic leaders argued during a day-long debate on the measure that Bush's war plan had failed and it was time to change tack.

"Let's change our strategy, and demand that the Iraqis step up and be responsible for their country, let's responsibly redeploy our troops," said Democratic House majority leader Steny Hoyer.

But Republicans accused their foes of backing a plan for defeat in Iraq.

House Minority leader John Boehner branded the measure a "meaningless bill that undermines our troops."

"If we fail in Iraq we know what happens, we make America less safe," he said.

Meanwhile, President George W. Bush insisted the Iraq war could still be won and dismissed mounting calls for a change in strategy as US lawmakers voted again for troop withdrawals.

Musharraf vows to crush extremism

AFP, Islamabad

President Pervez Musharraf vowed Thursday to wipe out extremism from Pakistan, saying in a defiant address to the nation that the raid on Islamabad's Red Mosque was necessary to save the country.

Military ruler Musharraf, a key ally in the US-led "war on terror," also said he would beef up security forces along the border with Afghanistan, where Taliban militants are active, giving the troops extra tanks and guns.

The televised address came amid fears of a possible Islamist backlash following the raid on the mosque this week that killed 11 soldiers and 75 people inside the complex, mainly militants.

"Extremism and terrorism have not yet been eliminated, and we are determined to root them out from every corner of the country," said General Musharraf, wearing a dark suit and tie instead of his army uniform.

"I am sad over the loss of lives in the operation but it became inevitable for Pakistan," Musharraf said, adding that the mosque and its adjoining girls' Islamic school had been "freed from the hands of terrorists."

He also appealed to the country's thousands of Islamic schools or madrasas, which have been accused of links to international attacks, to "teach the true values of Islam and in their (students') minds take away extremism."

Musharraf -- under international pressure to dislodge al-Qaeda and Taliban rebels from Pakistan's lawless northwestern tribal areas -- said he would strengthen the police and paramilitary forces there over the next six months.

The body that runs most of Pakistan's madrasas, the Wafaqul Madaris, said Musharraf had tried to "misinform" the country.

"Musharraf should not worry as we never teach hatred," its chief Hanif Jalandhri told AFP.

Earlier, in the first media visit to the battle-scarred Red Mosque complex, army officials displayed a huge arsenal of the radicals' weapons, including suicide vests, grenade launchers and explosives found amid the carnage.
