CA allays businessmen's fear

Admits reforms negatively affected business confidence

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Business leaders yesterday warned the caretaker government that the ongoing crackdown on corruption has created a 'climate of fear' which might push the economy to ruin, while Chief Adviser (CA) Fakhruddin Ahmed tried to allay their fears and boost business confidence by proposing a series of business-friendly reforms.

The views were exchanged at the first ever high-level dialogue between the government -- represented by Fakhruddin, Army Chief Moeen U Ahmed, and Finance Adviser Mirza Azizul Islam -- and the business leaders, on the topic of, Bangladesh Economy and Future Perspective, at Radisson Water Garden Hotel in the capital.

During his speech to the business leaders, Fakhruddin admitted that the ongoing reforms have 'negatively' affected business confidence, but he said it is not 'unexpected' during rapid and significant changes to the established modalities, while business leaders demanded the government ensures that they will be able to run their businesses without fear of 'undue harassment and regulations'.

In order to thwart the negative effects, Fakhruddin said the government is considering creation of a high-level regulatory reform committee, which will examine the laws and regulations, eliminate redundant and irrelevant laws, and simplify those that are needed.

He also proposed a Bangladesh Better Business Forum, to be chaired by himself, and comprising high-level representatives from the public and private sectors who would identify problems and recommend systemic solutions.

The government also plans to build the capacities of selected government institutions to better facilitate the private sector, and has plans to initiate a quarterly survey of business confidence so it can 'constantly feel the pulse of the private sector'.

The chief adviser also said the government efforts to support the private sector will also have to incorporate social expectations from businesses, such as creation of jobs, good affordable products, being environment friendly, and fair and safe workplace conditions.

He said ready-made garments still overwhelmingly dominate the export sector, a phenomenon which 'ought to be changed'.

Noting the problems of bureaucratic bottlenecks, the chief adviser said the government is going to systematically address the problem of facilitating business needs through administrative and regulatory reforms.

Army Chief Gen Moeen's 11-point proposal included creation of an interim development fund with the confiscated illegally earned money and the fines levied

Fakhruddin spells out steps to boost business

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Chief Adviser Fakhruddin Ahmed yesterday laid out a series of economic and legal measures, likely to be implemented by the end of this month, to cut back on national spending and invigorate the economy.

Fakhruddin shared his vision of an enlivened economy with business leaders at a dialogue titled "Bangladesh Economic Strategies and Priorities" held at Radisson Water Garden Hotel in the capital.

Fakhruddin's propositions included forming high-level committees to initiate regulatory reforms, an official forum where the government would regularly communicate with the business community and a quarterly survey mechanism to gauge the business situation in the country.

Fakhruddin said he would finalise a policy on the demolition of illegal structures and put an end

Delwar warns dissidents of expulsion

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Followers of Abdul Mannan Bhuiyan will wind up facing similar consequences for their activities against the party, newly appointed secretary general of BNP, Khandaker Delwar Hossain, said yesterday.

"If the senior leaders of the party stick to the expelled leaders, the vacuum in the party would soon be filled up," he told the reporters at a press briefing at his NAM apartment when he was asked to comment about the senior BNP leaders who have been collaborating with the expelled secretary general.

When asked about the meeting of party leaders called by Bhuiyan, the BNP secretary general said any person can join the meeting, but of course at his/her own risk.

We're mainstream BNP, real followers of Zia

Claims Bhuiyan at rebel leaders' meeting

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Followers of expelled BNP secretary general Abdul Mannan Bhuiyan yesterday challenged their opponents to run the party under the leadership of senior leaders, including Bhuiyan, and excluding detained Chairperson Khaleda Zia.

"We will lead the mainstream BNP as we are the real followers of late president Zia," Bhuiyan said at an informal meeting at his Gulshan residence. The BNP will form the next government through participating in the upcoming general elections after implementation of reforms led by the reformists, he added.

He urged BNP leaders and workers to save the party from dynastypolitics.

Blaming the detained party chairperson for initiating division in the party through the recent expulsion order, many district leaders and former lawmakers of BNP expressed firm determination to lead the party under Bhuiyan's leadership.

Strongly criticising Khaleda for expelling Bhuiyan, they said she should take the responsibility of breaking up the party as she has initiated the division through her expulsion order.

The leaders were addressing the meeting of the members of the party's National Executive Committee called by Bhuiyan.

Around 100 former lawmakers and district level leaders out of the 251 National Executive Committee members, including Dhaka city Mayor Sadeque Hossain Khoka, Chowdhury Kamal Ibne Yusuf and Major (ret'd) Hafiz Uddin Ahmed, attended the meeting.

Bhuiyan is also planning to talk with those who could not attend the meeting due to time constraint but expressed their solidarity with him. Many BNP supporters were also present in the meeting.

The meeting was arranged at the parking space of Bhuiyan's NAM building residence. The venue displayed a banner containing only the photograph of founder

STRANDED PAKISTANIS Govt moves to enroll them as voters

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

An inter-ministerial meeting yesterday agreed in principle to include the Urdu-speaking people, who were born in Bangladesh and showed allegiance to the country, in the voter list.

The proposal will be implemented after final approval of the law ministry, meeting sources said.

Mohammad Mohsin, additional secretary of the home ministry, presided over the meeting at the ministry in presence of representatives and senior officials of the law ministry, Election Commission and other ministries.

About three lakh Urdu-speaking people live in the country. Of them, about 1.6 lakh living in 116 camps are known as stranded Pakistanis who are willing to go back to Pakistan.

The Urdu-speaking people, who were born here after the independence will be registered in the voter roll. Besides, those who were between the age group of 10 and 18 during the Liberation War and showed loyalty to the country will also be included, a homeministry sources said.

The meeting's proposal will be sent to the law ministry for examining its legal aspects.

"If the law ministry gives approval, the Urdu-speaking people, except the stranded Pakistanis who are eager to leave Bangladesh, might be included in the voter list," the source added.
