STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The National Heritage Foundation was launched in the city yesterday to preserve, protect and promote the culture and heritage of the country.

The foundation will also try to add more Bangladeshi sites to the Unesco World Heritage List.

Presenting the objectives of the National Heritage Foundation, its convener Rizwan Bin Farouq said that Bangladesh has only three sites listed on the Unesco heritage list, when it should include hundreds of sites from this country alone.

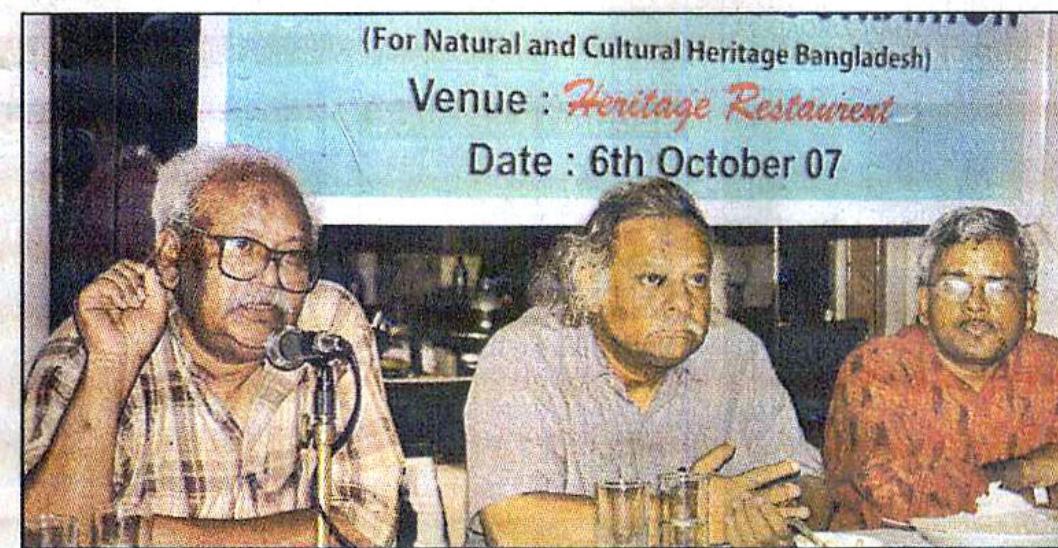

Artist Rafiqun Nabi and architect Shamsul Wares, who attended the launching ceremony at the Heritage Restaurant, also stressed the need to preserve and protect the country's heritage.

The three Bangladeshi sites listed on the Unesco list are the ruins of the Buddhist Vihara at Paharpur, Shat Gombuj (sixty-dome) Mosque in Bagerhat and the Sundarbans.

The foundation identified a number of sites, which require special attention for preservation and protection.

They are Mahasthangarh, Nava Ratna Kantinagar Temple, Gaur, Chhoto Sona Mosque, Kusumba Stone Mosque, Bagha Mosque, Govinda Temple, Atla Mosque, Ahsan Manjil, Star Mosque, Lalbagh Fort, Sonargaon, Hazrat Shahjalal's (R) Mazar, Shabban Bibar (Moinamati), Sitakunda and Madhabkunda falls.

Rizwan said that the foundation seeks to add ten Bangladeshi sites to the Unesco list each year and plans to mobilise support to ensure that 2010 is declared as the 'Visit Bangladesh' year.
