Eid audio market: New releases galore

Covers of new releases

CULTURAL CORRESPONDENT

EID is literally the best time for retailers and this does not exclude the music industry. In the wake of Eid-ul-Fitr, the music companies -- major and small -- try to release their best productions.

In celebration of the festival, fresh tunes find their way to the fun-filled family evenings, adda of close friends, namely tension-free holidays.

This Eid the audio market is offering a vast collection of Bangla songs of different genres. The albums that have already hit the market or are expected to be released soon are mostly of folk, rock, pop and remixes.

G-Series and its sister concern Agniweena are releasing mostly rock and fusion pop albums. Their albums for this Eid include Tahsan's fourth solo Pathor Golpokar, Chapter 2 (Fuad featuring Mila), Milon Mahmud's Charidikey Kolahol, Lina Taposhi's Monajaat (Islamic songs), Sumon featuring Anila, Topu's (of Yaatri) solo Meye, Hasan Shihab's Doyamoy, band Vibe's debut album Chena Jogot, Dalchhut's Jochhna Bihar, Stoic Bliss' Kolponar Bairey and mixed albums Underground 2, Neon Aloy Swagatom, Utshorgo and Ke Ankey Onno Chhobi.

Soundtek has an array of pop and folk based solo albums. Soundtek's Eid releases include Khalid's Hridoy Bhangar, Biday by Bappa Majumder, Asif's solo and another joint venture with Sonia -- Mon Pobon er Nao, Abar Pothey Dekha -- a mixed album by Anjan Dutt, Bappa Majumder and S.I. Tutul, Polash's Rong Mohol and Shonge Nyo Amakey.

Sangeeta's albums are mainly folk compilations: S.I. Tutul's Prashno, Shanto and Momtaj's Koto Bhalobashi Tomaye, Shahid's Bondhur Bhalobasha, Monir

Khan and Nasir's Amar Ki Dosh and more.

Laser Vision is bringing out fusion pop albums. Its albums are Panjabiwala (Habib featuring Shireen), Balam's self-titled solo album, and a mixed album Bhalo Toh?

Gaanchill Media Ltd is releasing albums by Close up 1 stars: Feriwala by Rashed, Lalon Konna by Beauty, and Boka (a collaboration of Prince Mahmud and Close up 1 finalists). Other major releases include Khoka O Hobey Buro by Biplob (of Prometheus) and Bari Siddiqui's Bhabar Deshey.

CMV has released rock star James' solo album Tufan.

Bengal Music Company Ltd has come up with Jhalmuri 1 and 2.

Bengal Foundation releases six CDs containing mostly ponchokobir gaan (songs of five poets). The new releases are Laiba Ahmed Lisa's Chirodin Keno Pai Na and Tania Mannan's Ashim Gaan Resh of Tagore songs, Nasima Shahin's Akash Bhorer Tara of Nazrul songs, Juma Khondoker's Aji Nuton Rotone of songs of Atul Prasad, Rajanikant and DL Roy and two albums of adhunik gaan Saradin Tomai Bhebe and Hridoy Lekho Naam by Iffat Ara Dewan.

Diversity of the music offers something for everyone. The focus is on entertainment for all.

"We always look forward to Eid. I hope for best sales as we have some great music albums lined up," said a salesman at a music outlet in Bashundhara City mall. Apart from new releases music outlets are also selling classics and old albums still in demand.

However, the issue of piracy continues to hound the music industry as the artists and production houses are being deprived of their profits.

Eid special

Shykh Seraj to host game show "Krishoker Eid Anondo"

CULTURAL CORRESPONDENT

As part of the Eid specials, Channel-i will air a unique game show titled Krishoker Eid Anondo. The programme will be aired at 9:30 pm on October 11.

The programme has been arranged by the popular agriculture-based documentary programme Hridoy-e Mati O Manush (aired on Channel-i). Director of Channel-i and noted media personality Shykh Seraj has directed, planned and hosted the gameshow.

Popular rural sports like Ha-du-du, Dariyabandha and many more will be featured at the game show. Apart from these, several contests, based on day-to-day lives of the farmers -- such as fishing and sowing -- are also included in the programme. The participants are farmers, fishermen and rural folks in general.

Previously, the show Mati O Manush featured farmers' world cup and the rural celebration of Bengali New Year, which drew a wide audience response.

This year the farmers were distressed by two consecutive floods, specifically in the northern districts. To help them recover, Hridoy-e Mati O Manush lent a hand to the farmers with relief and urged all to give zakat to the needy. Krishoker Eid Anondo is an endeavour to encourage farmers to retain their spirit while struggling with the onslaught of flood.

The programme will re-run at 6:00 pm on the fifth day of Eid.

Shykh Seraj (R) hosts the show Krishoker Eid Anondo

The art market in India reframes itself for the 21st century

For an uninitiated outsider, making your way to one of Delhi's new art galleries can be a disorienting study in contrasts. In the crowded streets behind the Taj Mahal Palace and Tower, where the air is heavy with the smell of gasoline and flowers, you are approached by women begging for money and food. Men shout invitations to enter their carpet shops or purchase wares like watches, magazines, leather jackets and cigarettes.

Then, from a narrow thoroughfare, you enter a courtyard where an old man sits wearing a black security uniform. He speaks no English but, when asked for directions, points toward a flight of wooden stairs so worn they are bowed in the middle. At the top, a door is opened by a barefoot woman in a sari. Behind her is an art gallery as white and sleek as any space in Chelsea.

These contradictions do not arise from any calculated exoticism. This is simply the new India.

The Indian art world has more than changed. It has exploded. Prices have increased tenfold since 2002. In the last two years alone, they have nearly doubled. Works by India's top-selling contemporary artists -- Atul Dodiya and Subodh Gupta are the names most often cited -- can fetch hundreds of thousands of dollars. The auction price of paintings by the older generation of great Indian modernists, like M.F. Husain or F.N. Souza, can easily pass a million dollars, hardly uncommon for leading Western artists but staggering in a country where the average income among the 1.1 billion residents is about $820 a year.

The global art world is enthralled. The abiding fascination with China's modish new art has now spread to its south-western neighbour, with international dealers and curators flocking in to discover talent.

In the next few weeks alone, at least seven large-scale exhibitions of contemporary Indian art will open in Italy, Switzerland and the United States.

Given the attention and fistfuls of money being thrown at Indian art, more and more galleries are opening or refashioning themselves.

In New Delhi, Gallery Espace, Vadehra Art Gallery and Talwar Gallery are three elegant examples. A fourth is Nature Morte, considered by many to be the pre-eminent gallery of contemporary art in India.

Similar energy is gathering in Mumbai, where Galerie Mirchandani + Steineruecke, Bodhi Art (which has other spaces in New York, Delhi and Singapore), Sakshi Gallery, Project 88 and Chatterjee & Lal have all opened or moved and expanded during the market's rise.

Yet paradoxes surface in even the briefest conversations with artists, dealers, collectors and writers here.

Nikhil Chopra, a young performance artist in Mumbai, said: "I can't believe we're a country of a billion people that doesn't have more than a couple of decent art schools, no contemporary art museum, no real funding, no group of trained curators fluent in contemporary art, no art criticism in the newspapers, just one serious art magazine, Art India, and only a few major collectors of contemporary work. In other words, no real infrastructure at all."

But there are signs that the situation is improving. A modern art museum is being planned for Calcutta. Jawaharlal Nehru University in New Delhi now has a School of Arts and Aesthetics, a fairly sophisticated programme of art history and cultural studies.

"Kuley Prem Ami Benojoley" on Rtv

CULTURAL CORRESPONDENT

Written by Masum Reza and directed by Syed Awlad, TV play Kuley Prem Ami Benojoley will be aired on the second day of Eid at 8:40 pm on Rtv.

Following a trivial misunderstanding, Mayur and Milon's love goes haywire. When Milon finally realises his fault, Mayur had already married someone else. At this point, Pekhom comes into Milon's life. Though Milon tries to find comfort in his new love, Pekhom senses that it is his ex-lover who still owns Milon's heart. The story hits its climax when Milon and Pekhom are contemplating marriage and the bride-to-be receives a letter saying Mayur's Husband has left her.

Meer Sabbir, Banna Mirza and Nova play the lead roles.

A scene from the play

A three-day show of Baganja, a play on the lifestyle of the tea pickers working at 158 tea gardens in the country, was held from October 4 to 6 at Kamalganj and Kulara Upazilas in Maulvi Bazaar. Theatre personality Mamunur Rashid was the chief guest at the programme. Baganja, written by Kumar Pratish Baul and directed by Debashish Ghosh, is a Baganja Natyagoshthi production. Tea pickers have acted in the play

4 Fast 4 Furious

In an unusual casting move, the original stars of The Fast And The Furious are returning to the franchise they abandoned long ago. Vin Diesel and Paul Walker are in talks to headline the fourth instalment of the high-octane street racing franchise. As Hollywood Reporter coyly puts it, "The storyline is being kept under wraps, but fast cars are involved." Now that's investigative reporting.

The main problem now is what to call the movie. 4 Fast 4 Furious? Even Faster And Much Furiouser? Or maybe they'll change tack this time and go with The Slow And The Amenable.
