

FESTIVAL PLANNER

Tuesday

Do something special for your mother this Eid, like getting her some gifts other than the usual sari. You can opt for home accessories like a cotton patchwork bedcover, silk cushion covers, terracotta bowls, candle stands etc. Or if your mom spends a lot of time in the kitchen on Eid day, you can buy matching aprons and oven mitts and help her out!

Monday

Most of the youngsters I know are usually really bored during the Eid holidays. Don't let this be the case this time, take your whole family out to watch a movie, eat at a new restaurant or anything else that the kids might want to do. Enjoy yourselves as much as you can and once again, Eid Mubarak!

Wednesday

If you are sure of receiving many guests at home, you better start deciding on your menu for Eid day. Instead of serving the usual shemai, mishti and the likes, try something different. Look up some interesting recipes from the Internet, various cookbooks or LS!

Thursday

Eid is almost here and you need to look good on the big day! Ladies, you might want to take a trip to the parlour and treat yourself to a facial or hair treatment, or get some henna patterns done. Or you can be creative and create your own crazy designs at home!

Sunday

If yesterday was not the first day of Eid, today is bound to be. Remember that Eid is a day of celebration for everyone, so give your maids a break. Don't force them to slave over the burning stove all day while you entertain your guests, allow them to go out and enjoy themselves as well.

Saturday

If last night's sighting was successful, then Eid Mubarak! Since this is the one of the biggest festivals of the year, a huge score of people are bound to be crowding the streets. Join this festive throng and take a rickshaw ride to areas like Dhaka University. And if Eid hasn't come around yet, stay up tonight and watch for the new moon again!

Friday

The next day just might be Eid! Everyone will be on the look out for the new moon, so why not make a fun occasion out of it? Gather a small group of family or friends and pick a spot where you can all go and wait for the sighting, and don't forget to arm yourselves with fireworks!
