

Lara loves keeping

AFP, Hong Kong

The Hong Kong Sixes produces many sights not often seen at a cricket match: boundaries virtually every ball, matches lasting no more than 45 minutes -- and the world's greatest batsman keeping wicket.

Brian Lara, playing in an All-Stars side at the tournament this weekend, has welcomed the chance to don the gloves and deal with deliveries from teammates Shane Warne, Glenn McGrath and Anil Kumble.

Normally a slip-felder before he retired from the international game, Lara said he was keen to take on the challenge of keeping wicket to some of the game's greats.

"One of the reasons I have been looking forward to the Sixes is the chance to do some wicket-keeping," he said. "Playing alongside Shane and Glenn is new, and it is equally unusual for me to be behind the stumps."

Lara, Test cricket's top run-scorer, took to the task with ease, securing the All-Stars' first wicket of the weekend when catching Australian opener Nathan Reardon for 19.

For Lara another advantage of keeping wicket was not having to bowl -- all other fielders in the six-a-side team have to deliver an over.

In Lara's glorious 131-match Test career, he bowled only 60 balls and never took a wicket.

"I thought Brian kept well," said All-Stars colleague Heath Streak from Zimbabwe. "He got through it all right and I think he would prefer that to bowling."

No better way for Sanath to start the tour

AFP, Adelaide

Sri Lankan opener Sanath Jayasuriya opened his final tour of Australia in spectacular fashion when he blasted 154 against a Chairman's XI here on Saturday.

Facing an attack made up of state players not required for domestic matches, the veteran led his team to 335-4 at stumps on the first day of the three-day match.

The Sri Lankans also enjoyed useful contributions from recalled opener Marvan Atapattu (56), Michael Vandort (55) and Thilan Samaraweera (53 not out).

But there were some concerns over an apparent thigh injury to wicketkeeper and batsman Kumar Sangakkara, who retired hurt soon after having his leg strapped.

Jayasuriya began slowly but developed a liking for the medium pace of Paul Rofe (0-82) and wrist spin of Cullen Bailey (0-100), who was at one point dispatched for three legside sixes in as many deliveries.

The Sri Lankans play the first Test against Australia in Brisbane on November 8-12.

Freddie let me down: Fletcher

BBC ONLINE, undated

Former England coach Duncan Fletcher says Andrew Flintoff "let him down" with his World Cup drinking antics.

Flintoff fell off a pedalo and was one of six England players fined following a drinking session after England's defeat to New Zealand in St Lucia.

The all-rounder had also been warned as to his future conduct during the Ashes defeat when he was England's captain.

And Fletcher told the Daily Mail: "I supported Andrew but he let me down in an area that he had real control over."

Flintoff captained England to a 5-0 Ashes defeat in Australia in the absence of Michael Vaughan.

And he was sacked as England vice-captain at the World Cup and banned for a game after the pedalo incident following the six-wicket defeat to New Zealand.

England then failed to progress beyond the Super Eight stage at the World Cup in the West Indies, prompting Fletcher to resign.

"I've supported a lot of players but Andrew drank again at the World Cup after what had happened in Australia while I was taking a pasting," Fletcher continued.

"I don't regret making him captain. The problem was, in the absence of Vaughan, there were so many unknowns."

"It's fascinating to wonder how good (Andrew) Strauss might have been as captain."

"But an imponderable is, how bad might Fred (Flintoff) have been with the whole drinking thing if he hadn't had the responsibility of the captaincy? And would he have taken Steve Harrison with him?"

The Zimbabwe-born coach is also hoping for a return to county cricket, having been at Glamorgan before taking up his post with England.

Akhtar promises his best

Cricket

AFP, Lahore

Pakistan's Shoaib Akhtar vowed Saturday to make the upcoming tour of India memorable after the paceman was recalled to the team for the crucial series against the archrivals.

"I promise that I will do my best and give my full effort on the tour of India to help my team win both the one-day and Test series," Akhtar said in an interview with AFP.

The 32-year-old was recalled on Friday for possibly his last tour of India after he served a ban of 13 international matches, punishment primarily for hitting a teammate with a bat last month.

Akhtar was also fined 3.4 million rupees ($6,000; dollars) after he struck fellow fast bowler Mohammad Asif on the thigh after team practice in Johannesburg ahead of the inaugural ICC World Twenty20 Championship.

Akhtar was placed on probation for two years, which means he could be banned for life if he again breaches the players' code of conduct.

The punishment meant he missed Pakistan's Test series and four one-day matches against South Africa. He has been named in the squad for the fifth and final one-day against the Proteas here on Monday.

Akhtar vowed that his career was back on track after the mistake which he described as something he would rather forget.

"What I did was silly and happened in a fit of anger," Akhtar said.

"I apologised to Asif, to the team players and to all my countrymen and now I hope that my career will not suffer again."

"I have missed a lot of cricket due to injuries and other reasons, but now I want to focus on my game and do my best for the country," said Akhtar who played his last Test in South Africa in January this year.

Despite the intense rivalry between the two teams, Akhtar said he is respected in India and is looking forward to the tour.

"This may be my last tour so I must do something special for the fans in India so that they remember me in a good way," said Akhtar.

His only complete tour of India was in 1999 when, as a newcomer to the Pakistan team, he took eight wickets in the Asian Test championship match at Kolkata -- including the wickets of Sachin Tendulkar and Rahul Dravid off successive deliveries.

"Those were the golden moments of my career and I still want to get Tendulkar and Dravid's wickets because they are special players," said Akhtar who missed Pakistan's 2005 India tour due to injury.

His last tour to India ended in ignominy after he and fellow paceman Mohammad Asif were expelled after testing positive to the banned steroid nandrolone, two days before the start of the Champions Trophy.

Akhtar was banned for two years and Asif for one year before the bans were lifted on appeal.

Akhtar said both the one-day and Test series will be exciting.

"Since our pace attack is better than theirs I feel the balance is tilted towards Pakistan and if we bat well then we can return as winners."

Pakistan leave for New Delhi on November 1 and will play the first of five one-day internationals at Guwahati on November 5.

It will be followed by three Tests in New Delhi, Kolkata and Bangalore.

ASIAN INDOOR GAMES

Kabaddi team off to Macao

UNB, Dhaka

A 12-member Bangladesh national kabaddi team left for Macao yesterday to take part in the second Asian Indoor Games with a hope to win at least one medal.

The nine-day meet will begin on Friday.

Bangladesh will face Asian giants India, Pakistan and Iran.

Players: Ziaur Rahman (captain), Al Mamun, Mozammel Haque, Kamal Hossain, Abu Saleh Musa, Enamul Haque, Andul Kader, Rabiul Islam, Bazlur Rashid and Sadekul Islam.

Oram bowls NZ into strong position

AFP, Bloemfontein

All-rounder Jacob Oram bowled the touring New Zealanders into a strong position on the second day of a four-day match against a South African Invitation XI at Goodyear Park Friday.

The tall medium-pace took four for 17 in 14 overs as the Invitation XI were bowled out for 156 in reply to the tourists' first innings total of 318. Bad light ended play at the end of the Invitation team's innings.

Ahmed Amla, elder brother of Test batsman Hashim, was the only Invitation XI batsman to shine, making 67 before he was eighth man out.

Shane Bond and Chris Martin bowled impressively with the new ball as the first three wickets fell for 33 runs.

Oram then wrecked the middle order, taking the next four wickets on a cool, overcast day. New Zealand captain Daniel Vettori wrapped up the innings by taking the last three wickets, including that of Amla, who made his runs off 133 balls with nine fours.

The only significant support for Amla came from former Test wicketkeeper Thami Tsolekile, who made 25 in a sixth wicket partnership of 75.

New Zealand wicketkeeper Brendon McCullum took four catches before finishing the innings by stumping Emy Mbhlati.

FROM PAGE 17 domestic matches to win back his place in the national team.

"I am playing first class cricket for Agricultural Development Bank and do my best to win back my place," said Razzaq, who also signed up for rebel Indian league two months ago.

Razzaq said he was not sure of playing for the ICL.

"I will wait and see. I have signed for them but I will take a decision in the next few days," said Razzaq about playing in the league unrecognised by the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI).

The BCCI launched its own league to counter the ICL, bankrolled by India's largest media group.

Razzaq will have to wait until next month to get a place in Pakistan's Test team for India. Pakistan Friday announced a 16-man one-day squad to play five one-day games against India, the first match starting November 5.

Chief selector Salahuddin Ahmed said Razzaq will have to prove fitness and form.

"Let him play first class cricket and the doors are open for everyone who does well at the domestic level," said Ahmed.

England warn All-Stars

Cricket

AFP, Hong Kong

England believe they have a serious chance of beating an All-Stars team that includes cricketing greats Shane Warne, Brian Lara and Glenn McGrath at the Hong Kong Sixes on Sunday.

The England team are to clash with the All-Stars in the quarterfinals of the tournament, which packs 21 five-overs-a-side games into two frenetic days of action.

"No one can pretend it is a highly tactical format of the game," England one-day international player Dimitri Mascarenhas said after scoring 20 not out in their opening match against New Zealand.

"But we are a very competitive bunch of players, and it is always an honour to represent England. The (100,000-dollar) winners' cheque is naturally another reason to try our very best.

"No one is going to miss the opportunity to bowl out Lara or hit Warne or McGrath for a six," he added.

Mascarenhas, who hopes to be on England's tour of New Zealand early next year, said he was looking forward to the quarterfinal battle with Warne, his Hampshire county captain.

"It's fun to see how he fares in Sixes," he said. "I've played in this tournament before and it is not like cricket anywhere else."

The All-Stars also boast Indian super spinner Anil Kumble, former England international Geraint Jones and hard-hitters Craig McMillan of New Zealand and Heath Streak of Zimbabwe.

England manager Mike Gatting said that, despite the carnival atmosphere at the Kowloon Cricket Club, his team was desperate to come out as eventual winners.

"The All-Stars are a pretty decent side, especially with spinners like Shane Warne and Anil Kumble, but this is a game in which any result can come from any match. England are keen to win and we reckon we have a good shot."

Among the key players in the England side are Twenty20 specialist Darren Maddy and 22-year-old Luke Wright, who is tipped to have a future in the Test side.

On Saturday England lost to New Zealand, before beating India -- setting themselves up for the All-Stars' fixture.

All 10 teams finished Saturday's group games still in with a chance of winning the competition Sunday. Three games will be played early to settle the quarterfinal lineup.

Bangladesh, who field Mohammad Ashraful and Zunaed Siddique, and New Zealand are also seen as likely to perform well in the deciding matches.

BOB WOOLMER DEATH INQUEST

Toxicology tests inconclusive

Cricket

AFP, Kingston

Toxicology tests on Pakistan cricket coach Bob Woolmer showed conflicting results as to whether he had ingested poison, a Jamaican forensic analyst told the inquest into Woolmer's death here on Friday.

Marcia Dunbar testified that evidence of the pesticide cypermethrin was found in blood and urine samples.

Of three samples of blood taken from Woolmer, Dunbar said one tested for cypermethrin while the others did not.

Questioned by Jermaine Spence, an attorney representing the interest of the International Cricket Council (ICC), if this was unique, Dunbar replied: "I am not sure."

Woolmer died on March 18 after he was found unconscious in his Jamaica hotel room a day after his Pakistan team was humiliated by Ireland in the cricket World Cup.

When police said they were treating the former England player's death as murder, it sparked speculation that the case could be linked to corruption in international cricket.

However, in June Jamaican authorities said they were no longer treating the death as homicide.

Dunbar, who is a 26-year-old veteran at Jamaica's Government

Forensic Science Laboratory, said there were traces of the tranquilliser chlorpromazine in samples from Woolmer's stomach and that he had some alcohol in his system.

She said that an analysis of bile samples did not reveal the presence of dangerous drugs and toxins.

She said urine samples allegedly taken from Woolmer's body revealed the presence of cypermethrin.

The results from the examinations and analysis of a host of other exhibits, including items such as the sink basin pipe in Woolmer's room and beverages found there, showed no sign of cypermethrin.

Controversial pathologist Ere Sheshiah, who performed the autopsy on Woolmer and originally concluded that Woolmer died from asphyxia caused by manual strangulation, has testified here this week that he now believes Woolmer died of asphyxia caused by manual strangulation associated with cypermethrin poisoning.

Three overseas pathologists brought in to review the case have testified they believe Woolmer died of natural causes, probably related to heart disease. The trio have criticized Sheshiah's techniques.

The inquest, presided over by coroner Patrick Murphy and 11 jurors, is expected to end on November 9. Testimony continues on Monday.

Women's handball final today

UNB, Dhaka

Panchagarh and Dhaka reached the final of the first Invitational Women's Handball Tournament winning their semifinal matches at the Tetulia Pilot High School ground in Panchagarh yesterday.

The final will be held today at 3:00pm.

On way to the final, Dhaka crushed Dinajpur by 15-3 after leading the first half 7-2 in the first semifinal.

Mona scored four goals while Maleka and Rosy netted three goals each for Dhaka.

In the day's other semifinal, Panchagarh eliminated Rajshahi by 15-10 after dominating the first half 7-5.

Shahida and Nishi scored six goals for the winners while Mina Khatoun netted four goals for the losers.
