

The differently abled are difficult to identify and diagnose as birth registers and correct record of health information are not strictly maintained. Many such children are hidden or left behind, as there are few organisations that provide support services for disabled children and their parents.

Yet with tr n ams, could to