THE WORLD

Hillary loans $5m to her campaign

AFP, Washington

Democratic White House hopeful Hillary Clinton said on Wednesday she loaned her campaign five million dollars of her own money in January to keep up with rival Barack Obama's record cash windfall.

"I loaned the campaign five million from my money," Clinton said a day after more than 20 state nominating contests resulted in no clear front-runner for the Democratic party ticket.

"I loaned it because I believe very strongly in this campaign. We had a great month fund-raising in January, broke all records. But my opponent was able to raise more money," Clinton said.

"And we intended to be competitive, and we were. And I think the results last night proved the wisdom of my investment."

The New York senator, who won large states such as New York, New Jersey and California on Super Tuesday, also launched an Internet drive to raise three million dollars in three days.

Meanwhile, the Obama campaign shot back with a statement saying it had raised three million dollars in the past 24 hours, and appealed for supporters to send in more cash.

Imran Khan barred from entering Karachi

AFP, Karachi

Pakistani authorities barred opposition politician Imran Khan from entering the southern city of Karachi yesterday because he has called for a boycott of upcoming elections, officials said.

Former cricket legend Khan was put back on a plane to Islamabad after officials prevented him from entering the southern province of Sindh, of which Karachi is the capital, Sindh home minister Akhtar Zamin said.

"We do not want anything to disrupt the elections that is why have sent him back, "Zamin told AFP.

"If he does not want to contest elections, it is fine, but he should not incite other people to do so. He will be welcome to visit Sindh after elections."

Khan, a former member of parliament and the chief of the small Movement for Justice party, has called for the boycott of general elections on February 18, saying fair and free polls were not possible under President Pervez Musharraf.

Gun violence jumps in Japan: Police

AFP, Tokyo

Japan saw a 25 percent rise in gun violence last year with a resurgence in gangland conflicts, despite the country's tight control on firearms, police said yesterday.

Japan prides itself on having one of the world's lowest crime rates but saw a series of highprofile shootings last year including the assassination of a mayor.

The number of shooting incidents in 2007 rose to 66 with those involving underworld syndicates rising to 42, the National Police Agency said in a statement.

It represented a rebound from five straight annual declines in gun violence from a 2001 peak of 215 incidents.

The number of casualties in last year's incidents doubled from 19 in 2006 to 40 last year with the number of deaths jumping to 22 from two, the agency said. Of the dead, 12 were members of gangster

The agency said there were 12 gangland conflicts last year compared with none in 2006.

A resident of Atkins in Arkansas searches through debris after a tornado ripped through the area on Wednesday. Tornadoes tore through Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Alabama and Mississippi on February 5, leaving at least 55

UN presses Kenyan rivals for end to crisis

Fresh violence claims 10 more lives vote-counting.

AFP, Nairobi

Kenya's political rivals pushed ahead with crisis talks yesterday amid new deaths and increased UN Security Council pressure to end weeks of bloodshed.

As violence claimed 10 more lives in western Kenya, the opposition accused the government of arming militias to sow terror following disputed presidential elections in December.

Negotiators for President Mwai Kibaki and opposition leader Raila Odinga resumed talks led by Kofi Annan after the UN Security Council issued strong backing for the former UN secretary general's mediation.

In its first formal statement on the crisis, the UN body expressed "deep concern that, despite the commitments made ... civilians continue to be killed, subjected to Nyongo told a news conference. sexual and gender-based violence and displaced from their homes."

Britain's UN ambassador said the Security Council statement underscored "the importance of the flawed presidential elections." Kenya's leaders putting national interest above partisan advantage." "That's what we in the Security Council are looking to Kenya's leaders to do," said John Sawers. Annan has set a deadline of dialogue." seven to 15 days to resolve the crisis sparked by the December 27 vote, which the opposition claims was rigged. International observers night, a police commander told AFP. have also cited serious flaws during Democratic Movement (ODM) charged the government had ordered firearms from a Chinese other property, police sources said. company to arm militias linked to Kibaki's Party of National Unity toll since the elections at over 1,000 (PNU).

continues to use tax-payers' money to purchase firearms for PNU militia," ODM secretary general Anyang the militias "who are then unleashed political breakthrough" could to kill innocent Kenyans protesting come in the next few days.

The government dismissed the accusations a "preposterous", with spokesman Alfred Mutua saying "these accusations are not helping the talks, they are undermining clashes in the northwestern region of Trans Nzoia Wednesday and over-

Another 34 people have died in violence in the area since the start of The opposition Orange the week, including at least nine who gangs who have torched houses and

The Red Cross has put the death and says 300,000 people have fled "The Kibaki administration their homes, with some 50 tent camps set up throughout the coun-

EU Development Commissioner Louis Michel was in Nairobi He accused Kibaki's party of for meetings with key players after "raiding official armouries" to equip saying he believed "a decisive

Israeli raids on Gaza kill seven

AFP, Gaza City

Six Palestinian fighters and a teacher were killed in Israeli raids on Gaza yesterday, the latest deadly strikes on the Hamas-run territory since a suicide bombing on Israeli soil this week.

Escalating violence in and around Gaza has already seen nine Hamas militants killed in air strikes Ten people were killed in tribal on the Gaza Strip this week and several Israelis, including two young children, injured by militant rocket attacks.

In the first air strike yesterday Thursday, four militants were killed near Jabaliya in the north of were shot by police cracking down on the territory by a missile fired from a drone, medics said.

Three of the gunmen belonged to the armed wing of Hamas, the Ezzedine Al-Qassam Brigades, the group said, and the fourth was from Islamic Jihad.

The second air raid saw two militants killed near Tuffah north of Gaza City, while four others were wounded, two of them seriously, Hamas said Israeli ground forces were also operating in the Tuffah sector.

Afghan crisis dominates Nato ministers' talks

US asks allies to deploy more troops

AFP, Vilnius

Arguments over Afghanistan dominated talks among 26 Nato ministers yesterday, with the United States pressing hard for allies to deploy more troops to tackle the Taliban in the restive south.

Gates fired a warning shot ahead of the two-day conference in Vilnius, saying failure in Afghanistan threatened the very future of the Nato military alliance. The message was also reinforced by US Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice and British Foreign Secretary David Miliband on a surprise visit to Afghanistan. "I worry a great deal about the alliance evolving into a two-tiered alliance, in which you have some allies willing to fight and die to protect peoples' security, and fierce fighting for decades. others who are not," Gates said.

over the future of the alliance, if this worse," he said. "In several cases I've made specific requests of specific kinds Germany, France, Spain and Italy Minister Stephen Harper has of units, and in some named units, not only to boost troop numbers repeatedly warned that Ottawa will and where they needed to go ... I but also to aid US, British, Dutch, pull its 2,500 soldiers out of restive haven't gotten any responses yet. and Canadian forces fighting a southern Afghanistan if it does not I'm sure I will in Vilnius.

"Frankly, I hope that there will Afghanistan.

be more troop contributions and there need to be more Afghan contributions," Rice told reporters in the former Taliban capital of Kandahar in southern Afghanistan.

As Rice and Miliband began their tour, a car bomb struck a Nato military vehicle in the eastern province US Defense Secretary Robert of Khost wounding three soldiers, the alliance's International Security Assistance Force said.

ISAF did not give the nationalities of the wounded but most foreign troops in the east are US nationals. Police said the attack, similar to scores carried out by the Taliban, was a suicide blast and the bomber was the only victim.

Commanders in Afghanistan have been calling for around 7,500 extra troops to ISAF, which comprises 42,000 troops from 39 countries -- some of them in their most

More than 6,000 people, includ-"And I think that it puts a cloud ing nearly 220 international soldiers, were killed last year -- the is to endure and perhaps even get worst since the start of the insur-

> The United States wants Taliban insurgency in south

However, European allies who argue their forces are already stretched by engagements elsewhere, including in Iraq, Lebanon, the Balkans and Africa.

Germany said this week it would provide some 200 troops to replace a Norwegian contingent acting as a reserve rapid reaction force in northern Afghanistan.

But Berlin is unlikely to go any further in beefing up its existing 3,100-strong mission or of deploying more in the south, despite calls also made by Nato Secretary General Jaap de Hoop Scheffer.

With 1,600 troops stationed mainly in Kabul, so far France has offered little more than several dozen military instructors to train Afghan national army forces in south Afghanistan where it carries out bombing missions against Taliban positions.

Paris did however hint that President Nicolas Sarkozy might announce further contributions at a NATO summit in Bucharest on April 2-4.

Meanwhile Canada's Prime get reinforcements from other Nato nations.

Five militants killed in fresh Afghan attacks

AFP, Khost, Afghanistan

Five militants were killed staging fresh attacks in Afghanistan as US Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice visited the insurgencywracked nation yesterday, officials

Three Nato soldiers were wounded in one of the incidents and, in another, three civilians were hurt when a suicide vest detonated as it was being strapped to a would-be attacker in the southwestern province of Nimroz, the provincial governor said.

The man trying to put on the vest and someone helping him were killed in the explosion, which took place in a small grocery store, Nimroz governor Ghulam Dastageer Azad told AFP.

"The shop collapsed and three civilians outside were wounded, two critically," he said. The owner of the store may have been working with Taliban insurgents, he added.

A car bomb struck a vehicle of the NATO-led International Security Assistance Force in the eastern province of Khost, ISAF's media office said.

Thailand won't interfere in Myanmar's affairs

New FM says

AFP, Bangkok

Thailand's new foreign minister, Noppadon Pattama, said yesterday the kingdom's elected government would not interfere in military-run Myanmar, saying democracy was a "domestic affair."

"We are not a headmaster who can tell Myanmar what they should do. We have to respect their sovereignty," he told reporters during his first press conference.

"The development of democracy and protection of human rights are Myanmar's domestic affairs," he said.

Thailand will continue to work with its neighbour through the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), but will focus on issues such as drug trafficking, trade and illegal migration, he added.

"We respect Myanamr's sovereignty, and if working through an Asean framework can help democracy in Myanmar, we will do it,' Noppadon added.

Indian Prime Minister Manmohan Singh (C), Maldives President Maumoon Abdul Gayoom (3L), Denmark Prime Minister Anders Fogh Rasmussen (2L), Finland Prime Minister Vanhanen (L), former Prime Minister of the Netherlands, Ruud FM Lubbers (R) and Norwegian Prime Minister Jens Stoltenberg pose for photograph during the inauguration of World Sustainable Development Summit on Climate Change in New Delhi yesterday.

Manmohan calls for 'climate justice' to fight global warming

AFP, New Delhi

Indian Prime Minister Manmohan Singh yesterday urged rich countries to ensure technology transfers to developing nations to combat fers," Singh said at the opening of house gas emissions. climate change under a transpar- the annual Delhi Sustainable ent global regime.

Calling for "climate justice," Singh said developing countries such as India needed environment-friendly technologies in fers." various sectors.

"We in the developing world desperately need access to environment-friendly technologies, especially in energy, transportation, manufacturing and agriculture," Singh told a gathering of international leaders and scientists in New Delhi.

"By climate justice, we mean a fair, equitable and transparent global regime for technology trans-Development Summit.

"It is in the interests of people living in developed and developing countries to facilitate such trans-around four percent of the global greenhouse gas emissions, is one of the world's top polluters.

But it has resisted international pressure to make commitments to India, along with China, is not included for targeted emission cuts under the 1997 Kyoto Protocol, the only global agreement that sets specific targets for reducing green-Singh reiterated the government's stand that India's per capita emissions will not exceed those of industrialised nations. Singh said the Indian government would come up with a detailed India, which contributes national plan by June to tackle the effects of global warming.

The prime minister had set up a panel last year to prepare a comprehensive roadmap for energy efficiency and sustainable development.

Nepal Maoists dismiss row over 'parallel govt' limit emissions.

AFP, Kathmandu

Nepal's Maoists yesterday dismissed a row over their formation of a "parallel government", denying they had revived the system they used to control swathes of the country during a bitter insurgency.

"We are not reviving parallel government structures. These are baseless allegations," Maoist spokesman and Communications Minister Krishna Bahadur Mahara told AFP.

The state-run Rising Nepal of the upcoming constituent reported Thursday that the Maoists Revolutionary People's Council to for April that will decide Nepal's Congress said in a statement.

"solve people's problems and help development work."

parallel local government bodies that the Maoists operated in areas under their control was a part of the November 2006 peace deal between the ultra-leftists and the government. not a violation of the peace deal.

Revolutionary People's Council (URPC) to prepare for the holding assembly elections," said Mahara, political future.

As well as preparing for the Dissolving unofficial courts and elections that will elect a body to rewrite Nepal's constitution, "the local people's councils will help with development activities," Mahara insisted.

The Nepali Congress, the coun-But the Maoists insist that try's largest party which is headed by expanding their local councils is the prime minister, said it was "deeply concerned" at the planned expansion

"We are expanding our United of the local Maoist councils. "The one-sided decision by the Maoists to revive the URPC violates the comprehensive peace agreement and other deals reached with had reactivated their United referring to crucial polls planned the government," the Nepali

Study in Australia UK seeks political

Spot Assessment IIBIT in association with University of Ballarat, Australia Sydney & Adelaide

People gather to watch and play with fireworks near Beijing's ancient Drum and Bell Tower moments before midnight on Wednesday to celebrate the first day of the Lunar New Year yesterday.

CRICOS Provider No: IIBIT: [019178] University of Ballarat: 01266K (NSW) & 02235J (SA)

Funded by government, University of Ballarat (UB) is the 3rd oldest tertiary institute in Australia*. UB Qualifications are internationally recognised. Through IIBIT, UB delivers a number of postgradutae & undergraduate courses in the CBD of Sydney & Adelaide. IIBIT Programs in Sydney: Certificate III & IV in Hospitality (Commercial Cookery)/ Diploma of Information Technology/ Diploma & Advanced Diploma of Accounting/Diploma & Advanced Diploma of Business Marketing or Management.

Computing (Garmes Technology)/Business (Tourism) /Commerce (Accounting). Master of Information, Technology/ Information Systems (eCommerce Security), Business Information Systems Master of Professional Accounting, Master of Business Administration, Dual Master Degree of Information Technology Studies & Business Administration. Ms Jane Lee Manager, Client Relations, from IIBIT will be available for spot admissions and assessment. Bring your original academic transcript and testamur plus a photocopy for inclusion in your application.

UB Programs @ IIBIT, Sydney & Adelaide : Bachelor of Information Technology/Business, Systems/Applied

School of Mines and Industries Ballarat was initially founded in 1870 Venue Date & Time

9th Feb. 2008 Active Group Gulshan Office | 9th Feb. 2008 Active Group Nayapaltan Office 10 am-1pm Gulshan Palladium, 2nd Floor Road # 95, Gulshan-2 2 pm-6 pm City Heart 12th floor, Suite # 6, 67 Nayapaltan, Dhaka

Naya paltan Office : City Heart, 12th floor, Suite # 6, 67 Naya paltan, Dhaka Gulshan Office : Gulshan Palladium, 2nd floor, Road # 95, Gulshan-2 Sylhet Office: Uposhahar Main Rd, Bock # A, House # 31 Call for an appointment on 9340536, 9349471, 9863326, 01711-568158

process' to end Lanka bloodshed

AFP, Colombo

Sri Lanka's former colonial ruler Britain has called for a "political process" to end Sri Lanka's spiralling violence and condemned the latest wave of bombings against civilians. British Foreign Secretary David Miliband in a statement released here said that the Sri Lankan government's unilateral withdrawal from a ceasefire with separatist rebels did not mean both parties should stop protecting civilians. Scores of innocent people have been killed since the government pulled out of an already moribund Norwegian-arranged ceasefire with Tamil Tiger guerrillas last month.

"Violence can never provide an answer to Sri Lanka's problems," Miliband said. "A sustainable solution to Sri Lanka's conflict can only emerge through a just political process involving all communities."

Sri Lanka's government has said it wants to crush Tiger guerrillas by mid-year after making territorial gains in the east of the island last year and confining the rebels to their de facto mini-state in the island's north. Fourteen bus passengers were killed in a roadside bomb attack on

"I call for an immediate end to practices which target civilians or put them in peril," Miliband said. Sri Lanka blamed the Tigers for a spate of bomb attacks against buses, a train station and villagers, while the Tigers have said government killing civilians in their territory.

PHOTO: AFP A Pakistani paramilitary soldier stands alert in front of slain opposition leader Benazir Bhutto mausoleum in Garhi Khuda Bakhsh yesterday. Thousands of people massed around Benazir's grave in southern Pakistan to mark the end commandos and war planes are of the 40-day mourning period for the slain opposition leader.