1,000MW load shedding makes life miserable

SHARIEF KHAN

With no practical move to improve gas supplies to power plants, the load-shedding situation continues to worsen as the dry scorching heat drive people to use more electricity at homes and offices.

The official power demand yesterday was 4,500 megawatts (MW) against a power generation of around 3,500MW. Around 800MW power could not be generated due to short supply of gas to many power plants.

Power Development Board

(PDB) sources said while the official power demand was just 4,500MW, the unofficial demand was hovering around 5,900MW.

A top official of the power ministry, however, told The Daily Star yesterday that the ministry is planning to hold a high-level meeting with the chief adviser about improving gas supplies for power generation.

"We are presently doing our homework regarding the gas and power situation. We will soon hold a top-level meeting so that effective decisions are made," he said.

BDR, BSF deal to combat cross-border crimes

PALLAB BHATTACHARYA, New Delhi

India and Bangladesh yesterday signed an agreement to make joint efforts to tackle cross-border crimes like arms smuggling and trafficking of women and children by sharing timely and actionable information.

"The agreement will help to end any suspicion and distrust prevailing on ground level," Bangladesh Rifles (BDR) Director General Maj Gen Shakil Ahmed told reporters after signing the agreement with the DG of the Indian Border Security Forces (BSF) A K Mitra.

The BDR and BSF wrapped up their biennial five-day conference in New Delhi agreeing to jointly deal with trafficking of women and children, smuggling of arms and counterfeit currency through sharing information by sector commanders.

Mitra said the agreement would help both BSF and BDR to expedite decisions.

He said the sector commanders would take pro-active steps to resolve the problems of local population in border areas.

Ahmed said BDR was committed

NEPAL ELECTION

Maoists score strongly in early poll results

AFP, Kathmandu

Nepal's ex-Maoist rebels were emerging yesterday as the surprise single biggest victors in early results for landmark elections to rebuild the Himalayan nation after a bloody civil war.

The polls were held last Thursday to elect a 601-seat assembly which is slated to abolish the centuries-old monarchy and rewrite the constitution.

"The Maoists have won or are leading in a total of 82 seats," said election commission spokesman Laxman Bhattarai.

Full results of the impoverished Himalayan nation's polls -- a dual first-past-the-post and proportional representation system -- will not be known for at least a week.

But "what we can be fairly certain about is that the Maoists have a strong chance of emerging as the single largest party," said Kathmandu political analyst
