

Photo taken on May 2, 2008 shows posters put up in Belgrade by Serbian nationalists branding pro-European Serbian leaders "Enemies of the State" for having signed an agreement on closer ties with the EU. The posters showed photograph of pro-Western President Boris Tadic and Deputy Prime Minister Bozidar Djelic taken at the ceremony of signing the Stabilisation and Association Agreement in Louxembourg earlier this week.

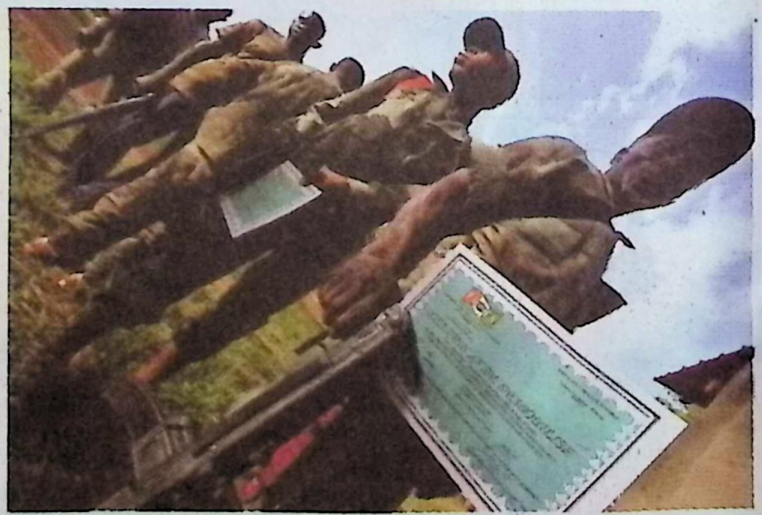

Competitors perform at the South Africa National Hot Air Balloon Championships 2008 in Bethlehem, Free State, South Africa.

AFP PHOTO

A banner which reads "Release Hu Jia" is hung down from Hong Kong's infamous guesthouse building Chungking Mansions on Nathan Road in Tsim Sha Tsui as the Olympic torch bearer passes by during the Olympic torch relay in the southern Chinese territory on May 2, 2008. Chinese dissident Hu Jia, who has been critical of the Games and published an essay called "The Real China and the Olympics", was jailed in early April. The Olympic torch relay got underway in wet conditions in Hong Kong, in what is seen as a last chance for protesters to pile more pressure on China over Tibet and its human rights record.

Ex-combatants of the New Forces former rebellion wait with the demobilisation certificates at the office of the re-grouping camp in Bouake, for the beginning of the demobilisation and reinsertion of ex-combatants of the New Forces in Ivory Coast.