

Many performers and partners were actually part of organising and promoting these events

The sessions 1.3 and 3.2 were jampacked! There was a crowd 3 to 4 times more than expected!

After the first wireless having illustrious performances, the sessions became a massive hit and there was no turning back. Until now, the featured artistes who have performed at the wireless sessions include - Arnob, Bassbaba Sumon, Bappa of Dolchut, Shironaamhin, Nemesis, Yaatri, Arbovirus, Ajob, dNA, Reborn, Kral, Powersurge, Radioactive, Eclipse, Mechanix, Scarecrow, Severe Dementia, Stentorian and more. There were also some uprising bands who have played in the sessions - Shunno, Overture, Germantown, Alter Messiah, Synopsis, Decipher, Alternation, Xoroastrian, Soothsayer, '71, Jasper & Shanto, Cynix-X, Infinity, Waterways etc.

The first season saw memorable performances from Nemesis with their own English numbers Gone & New day followed by Obocheton. Reborn performed three of their most popular numbers Baatighor, shobkichu and Khino manush. Kral performing Oasis's 'Wonderwall', 'Don't cry', 'knocking on heaven's door', 'patience'; their own numbers Chayashorir Ondhokar, Opekkhya and Ghune Dhora Shohor got tremendous applause. Powersurge was another attraction- an out of the box performance for them where they performed unplugged versions of Metallica's sanitarium & nothing else matters and their own number mitther agrason. The wireless sessions also featured Arnob as a special guest for the first time and the one-man-show stunned the young crowd with his voice and renditions of his own numbers such as Shey je boshe ache, hariye giyechi, tomar jonno, tor jonno, koshtogulo. There were also great performances from Ajob, Stentorian, Arbovirus and many young promising bands.

With popular demand, the season two was held in 5 sessions from 2.1 to 2.5 in November. Season two was marked with some spectacular performances like : Suhnno covering Maroon 5's 'She will be loved'; Mechanix covering "Angel" by Judas Priest. They also covered Sultans of Swing. Eclipse covered 3 tracks including Dream theater's hollow years and Circus Maximus's 'silence from angels above'. Scarecrow's rendition of breaking the rules by Pink Floyd and Megadeath's Tout le Monde were well received by the audience. Severe dementia covered songs by Manowar (Master of the Wind), Iced Earth (When The Eagle Cries), followed by the much demanded Death Whispered A Lullaby and Harvest by Opeth. The notable performance of the second season was by Sumon (Bassbaba from Aurthohin) starting Amar Proticchobi. He continued with Guti, and an unreleased track, Aushomapto. After this he performed Adbhut Shei Cheleti, and couldn't leave before performing four more songs for encores. Tumi Bhorecho E Mon, Chaite Paro, Nirbodh and Tumi Ashle Abar followed in succession. Yaatri completed the sessions with their songs Ekta Gopon Kotha, Nupur, Ami Ek Bhanga Ghorer Bhanga Janala, thus drawing an end to the second season of the Wireless Sessions.

The essence of the third season of the wireless sessions was a big surprise! Arnab turned up and did twelve of his best songs, including two folk renditions, and two songs 'lukiye' and 'Chai' which were released later in his latest album. The crowd went frenzied with his numbers that outnumbered rest of the performances. Other than that were the performances of Shironaamhin, with great renditions of their own numbers iccheghuri, cafeteria, hashimukh etc. Radioactive performed songs by Scorpions, Gun 'n' Roses and their own track Shopnpkotha - The audience couldn't get enough of them. Ajob's cover of their own numbers Bhobotaane, Ochin Pakhi, Khachar Bhetor Royiacho Kothay and Tomar Shure were also a treat for the people.
