Star biographies make dictionary

Late Hollywood actor Heath Ledger and crocodile hunter Steve Irwin have been included in the latest edition of the Collins Concise English Dictionary.

Their mini-biographies are joined by entries describing celebrities including comedian Russell Brand.

This latest edition is available online for the first time.

A Collins dictionary spokesman said: "We cannot put in every celebrity or sportsman or politician -- they have to be very well known.

He added: "Heath Ledger and Steve Irwin were included because they have been in the news so much since they died."

Ledger, whose films include "Brokeback Mountain," died in January from an accidental overdose of six different types of prescription drugs in his New York apartment.

TV personality and conservationist Irwin was killed by a stingray in 2006 while filming a documentary.

Brand, who recently starred in Hollywood film "Forgetting Sarah Marshall," is joined in the dictionary by "Muriel's Wedding" actress Toni Collette, and Australian-born author and broadcaster Clive James.

Sports stars on the list include Welsh boxer Joe Calzaghe, Formula 1 racing driver Lewis Hamilton and yachtswoman Dame Ellen MacArthur.

Fire at Universal Studios destroys sets, videos

AP, Universal City

One of Hollywood's largest movie studios starred in a disastrous sequel Sunday as a fire ripped through a lot at Universal Studios, destroying a set from "Back to the Future," a "King Kong" exhibit and a streetscape seen frequently in movies and TV shows.

It was the second fire at the historic site in nearly two decades, levelling facades, hollowing out buildings and creating the kind of catastrophe filmmakers relish re-creating This time around, thousands of videos chronicling Universal's movie and TV shows were destroyed in the blaze.

But Universal officials said that they were thankful no visitors were seriously injured - though several fire-fighters suffered minor injuries -- and that the damaged footage can be replaced.

"We have duplicates of every thing," said Ron Meyer, NBC Universal president and chief operating officer. "Nothing is lost forever."

The blaze broke out on a sound stage featuring New York brownstone facades around 4:30 am at the 400-acre property, Los Angeles County Fire Chief Michael Freeman said. The fire was contained to the lot but burned for more than 12 hours before the final flames were extinguished.

The cause of the fire is under investigation. Damage was expected to be in the millions of dollars.
