Cultural programme marking tree fair in Khagrachhari

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Khagrachhari

Speakers at a discussion and prize-giving ceremony held recently said that the government has decided to plant over 1.5 crore saplings in the reserve forest. Meanwhile some non-government organisations would distribute over 1 crore saplings in Chittagong Hill Tracts.

The decision was taken by the government to protect the forests, canals, rivers, hills, in general the environment of Chittagong Hill Tracts (CHT) by implementing the environmental law, through law enforcing agencies and generating awareness among the people.

This was disclosed by the speakers at a seven day-long tree fair jointly organised by Khagrachhari District Administration and Divisional Forest Office held at town hall premises in Khagrachhari.

Deputy Commissioner Mohammad Shahadat Hossain was present as chief guest while Additional Deputy Commissioner Khalilur Rahman presided over at the closing ceremony.

Speakers also said that there are over 10,000 private nurseries in CHT that might play a vital role in forestation in the region.

Explaining the importance of trees, besides giving us fruits, wood and shade, each mature tree absorbs carbon dioxide and provides oxygen.

They also urged the local environmentalists to work together, using local resources.

British American Tobacco Bangladesh, (BATB) received the first prize for their outstanding contribution to the tree plantation programme in the district.

After the prize giving ceremony a cultural programme was held at the same venue where local artists performed songs, dances and recitation.

A special play Jogfol Shunyo will be aired on ntv on July 3 at 9:00 pm. The cast includes filmstar Moushumi, Hassan Masud, Mosharraf Karim, Siddiqur Rahman, Toma and Ferdous in a special appearance.

Partho is the MD of a company and Selim is the GM. The story is set into motion when Joya is appointed as Selim's assistant. The two men compete to make a good impression on Joya and the plot proceeds on with several amusing incidents.

The play has been written and directed by Muhammad Mostafa Kamal Reza.

An Oscar for Heath Ledger? "Knight" cast thinks so

Heath Ledger's co-stars from "The Dark Knight," including two-time Batman Christian Bale, took turns at a press event this weekend praising and remembering the late actor's intense style. A few of them are even lobbying for a gold statue on his behalf.

"Definitely," said Aaron Eckhart, who plays doomed district attorney Harvey Dent to Ledger's droll and very creepy Joker. "Why not?"

Fellow cast-member Gary Oldman was more pointed about it.

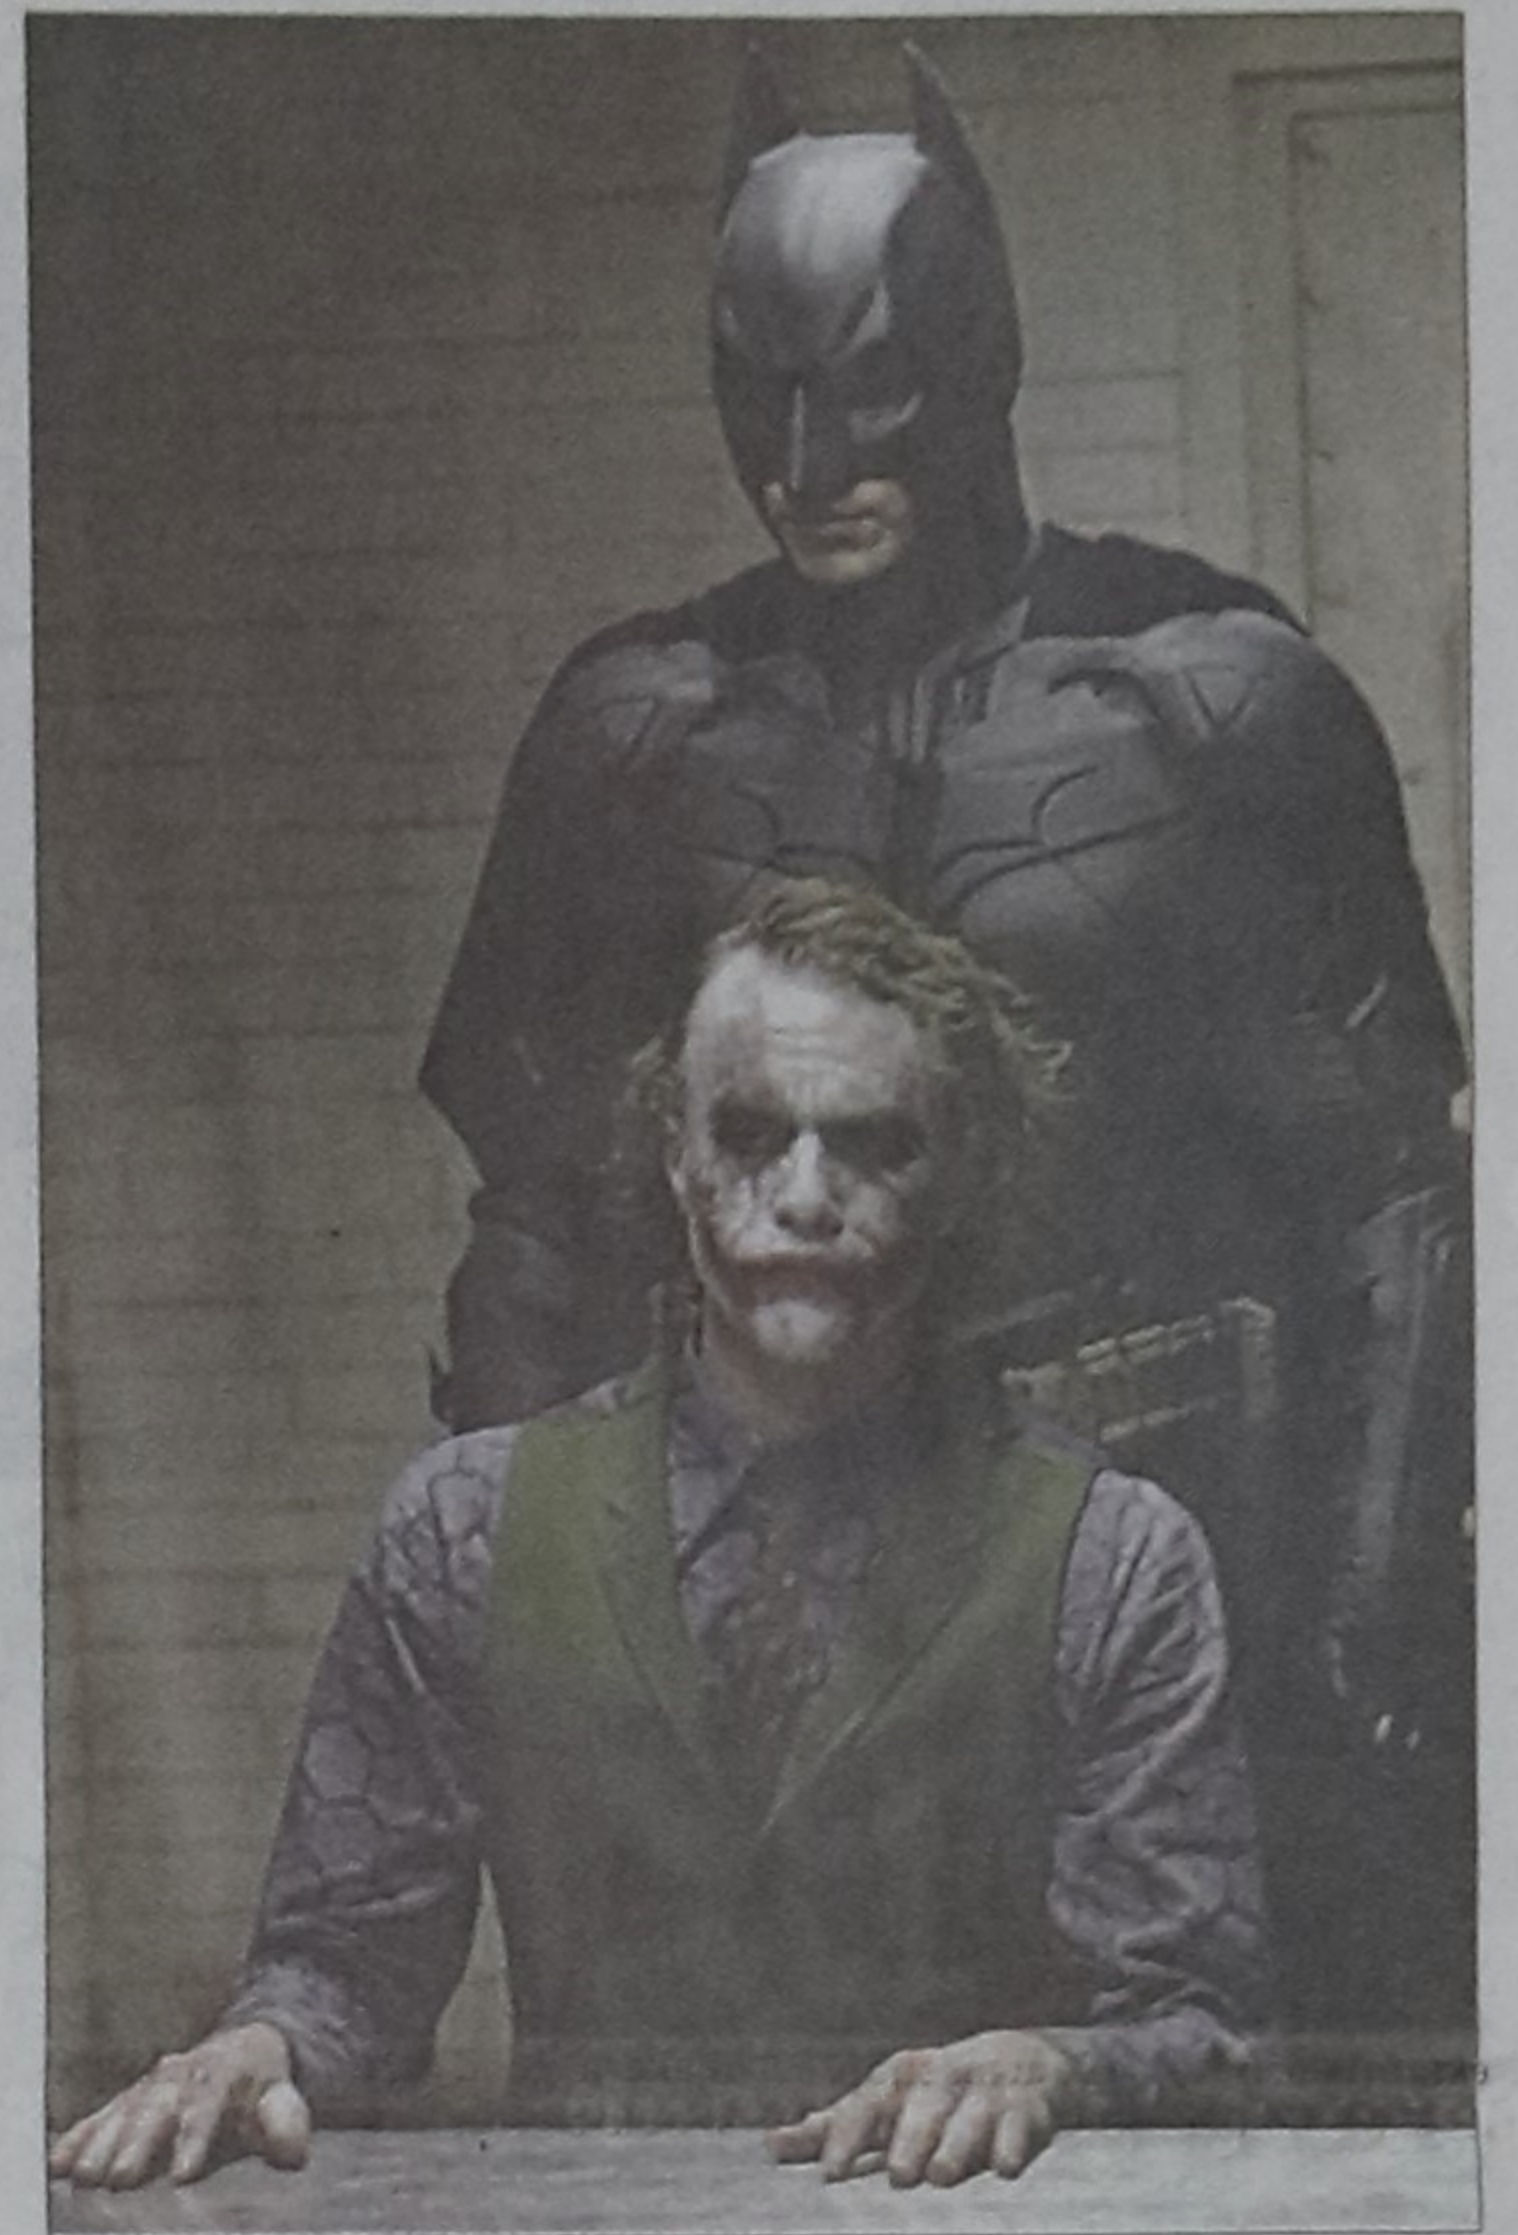

"Heath had this frequency none of us could hear," said Oldman. "The Academy tends to overlook movies like this, but this acting is so good it's going to be very hard for them to avoid it."

His other Gotham cohorts marvelled at Ledger's obsession with detail: He patched together influences ranging from "A Clockwork Orange" to ventriloquist dummies to Charlie Chaplin. The result: a Joker so demented and creepy he makes Nicholson's 1989 version look like Elton John in a bad mood.

"He called me during pre-production from time to time to tell me what he was working on," director Christopher Nolan recalled. "He told me he was researching the way ventriloquist dummies talk. It was a bit peculiar."

But when Nolan finally saw Heath's Joker onscreen, he got it. Ledger was trying for a vocal style that would match the Joker's chaotic character; even his pitch would be unpredictable, the same way that ventriloquists' voices would suddenly switch from low to high.

"He's raised the bar," said Bale. If the Academy does honour Ledger for his Joker character, it would be only the second posthumous acting win ever. The first went to Peter Finch for the 1976 movie "Network". Four other actors (including James Dean who was nominated twice) were nominated posthumously, but failed to win the Oscar.

Christian Bale as Batman (back) and Heath Ledger as Joker in "The Dark Knight"
