'Anti-liberation forces must be resisted by all means'

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

At the same time, speakers reminded the people that those who opposed the liberation of Bangladesh in 1971 still exist and they should be resisted and brought to trial by all means.

The remarks came at a memorial meeting on Indian Field Marshal Manekshaw who led the Bangladesh-India Joint Forces during the liberation war in 1971. Forum for Secular Bangladesh and Trial of War Criminals of 1971 organised the discussion at the Women's Volunteers Association auditorium in the capital where participants paid a rich tribute to Manekshaw, saying that he played a leading role in achieving the liberation of Bangladesh and must always be remembered.

Acting President of Forum for Secular Bangladesh Shahriar Kabir proposed that roads should be named in Bangladesh in honour of Indira Gandhi, then prime minister of India, Field Marshal Manekshaw and General Jagjit Singh Arora who played leading roles to help us achieve our freedom.

He also proposed constructing a memorial for Indians who were martyred during the war. Sector Commanders Forum as frontier rivers Surma and Kushiara continue to change their directions due to severe erosion, changing the original border," Md Shafiqul Islam, executive engineer of Water Development Board (WDB) in Sylhet, told the Daily Star.

Official sources said more than 3000 acres of Bangladesh territory have already gone to India due to the erosion of the two rivers only. Locals, however, estimate that the loss is no less than 4,000 acres. About a thousand acres of land

Senapatirchak and Manikpur in Two hun-Kushiara along the Sylhet border is dred and fifty acres of land in Ballah, Uttarkul, Munshibazar, Rosulpur and Dighli on the Surma banks in the upazila have also washed away into India. River erosion on the Bangladesh worse day by day, the Border River Protection and Development Project that plans protective works along nine kilometres on the Kushiara banks has been awaiting approval for the last three years.

The Indian side of the rivers, however, is well bulwarked against erosion. The Indian authorities in 2005 had agreed to allow the Joint Rivers Commission to conduct study on the Surma, Kushiara and Barak. SEE PAGE 15 COL 6
