EXTINCTION OF FRESH WATER FISHES

Indiscriminate use of pesticides responsible: Manik Lal

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Indiscriminate use of pesticides on croplands and harmful fishing nets are responsible for extinction of many species of fresh water fishes to a great extent, Special Assistant to the Chief Adviser Manik Lal Samaddar said yesterday.

He also urged all stakeholders to work together to protect the remaining species of fresh water fishes and underscored the need for creating mass awareness to this end.

Manik was addressing a press conference at Matsya Bhavan in the city ahead of the Fish Resource Development Movement 2008 that begins tomorrow.

He said fishes from both fresh and saline water meet up country's 60 per cent need of total animal protein.

"Earlier we could catch 90 to 95 per cent of total quantity of hilsa in the world but at present this amount has decreased to 50 to 60 percent only," he added.

He also said that shrimp cultivation is emerging as the second largest foreign remittance earner following the garment sector.

Already 127 fish processing industries of international standard have been set up and of them 48 received licenses from the European Union, he added.

ARMY VEHICLE TORCHING CASE

7 DU students demand withdrawal of case

DU CORRESPONDENT

Seven Dhaka University (DU) students, who were accused in the army vehicle torching case, yesterday reiterated their demands for the withdrawal of the case.

They formed a human chain at the foot of Aparajeyo Bangla on the campus. Several hundreds of students later stood hand in hand with them and expressed solidarity with their demands.

The case was filed against 25 students in connection with the campus unrest on August 20 last year, when an army person assaulted a student on the university playground.

Of them, seven students are still bearing the brunt of the case while another 18 were acquitted of the charge.

Five of the accused were detained in the jail for five months on different charges in connection with the campus unrest. They were released on bail on January 22 and 23 this year.

Talking to The Daily Star, Deen Islam Angel, an accused, urged the government to withdraw the case against them, saying the case is hampering their academic life.

Meanwhile, Bangladesh Chhatra Moitri, a left-leaning student organisation, yesterday staged a demonstration on the campus on the same demand.

After the incident, DU campus virtually turned into a battlefield following continuous violence between students and law enforcers that continued for three days and spread in educational institutions across the country.

Manik also told the press conference that the government has set up three laboratories in Dhaka, Chittagong and Khulna to control the quality of shrimp consignments so that these are not returned once they are exported.

He said National Shrimp Policy 2008 will be approved soon and distributed to the stakeholders.

In answer to a question, Director General (DG) of Fisheries Directorate Rafiqul Islam said annually the country can produce only about 24 lakh tons of fish (fresh and saline water) whereas the demand is 27 lakh tons.
