TAKIR HOSSAIN

Culture and heritage reveal our identity and of the artists seeking to revive our folk and traditional work...

Artworks by Abdus Shakoor.

Roy also influenced him at the beginning of his career. But over the years he developed a unique style...

humans along with birds and animals. Each work depicts a complete story that hides our identity...

execution. The lines he uses are not necessarily stylised, but they have an interactive attitude of a child with bold outlines...

series of his paintings.

"I always try to present my country in my works. When my works are on display in different galleries in the outer world, any foreigner can easily make out that these paintings are from this region...

It is clear from Shakoor's paintings that he looks for an identity for the country through the conventional means of expression, rather than personal means...

Abdus Shakoor's solo painting exhibition will begin soon in India.

The writer is a freelance contributor.

"Mamma Mia" still big with moms overseas

Forget the fanboys and their comic-book movies, it's time to hail a long-neglected fan base -- the mature women who kept "Mamma Mia!"...

Thanks to a top-of-the-market bow in Italy ($2.6 million) and strong holdovers, "Mamma Mia!" pulled in $13.6 million over the weekend from 44 territories...

Tina Fey signs book deal

Tina Fey

Funny money, indeed! Saturday Night Live alum Tina Fey -- whose NBC show, 30 Rock scored four Emmys -- has signed a book deal with Little, Brown Book Group...

There is no official word on how much Fey will be pocketing for her work -- pitched as more humour than memoir -- but earlier this week, the New York Post reported that competing publishers were offering close to $6 million.

The mother-of-one has recently won raves for her dead-on impersonations of Republican vice presidential candidate Sarah Palin.
