PURBACHAL HOUSING PROJECT

Handing over of a few plots begins in March

HELEMUL ALAM

The Rajdhani Unnayan Kartripakka (Rajuk) will start handing over a small number of plots among the allottees in Purbachal New Town Project from March next year although its development work needs over three years to be completed.

"We've done 80 percent earth filling and 35 percent other work so far in the Narayanganj part of the Purbachal housing project," said Project Director ABM Rafiqul Islam Khan.

"We'll start to transfer some plots from March 2009 as some areas will be developed by then," he added.

Development work is going on in 4,500 acres of land in the 6,150-acre Narayanganj portion, which is divided into 30 sectors, he said.

Rajuk on Tuesday invited applications for about 6,000 plots in Kaliganj in Gazipur but has yet to invite applications from the Adibashi (living in the project area for long) and the affected people.

"We have invited applications for about 6,000 more plots [3 katha, 5 katha, 7.5 katha and 10 katha] in Purbachal as we won the legal battle on Sunday over 1,129 acres land in Kaliganj in Gazipur under the project," said Rajuk Chairman Md Shafiqul Islam.

However, a good number of aspirant applicants could not get the application forms yesterday as Rajuk has not printed it yet. Officials say they will start form distribution from today.

Emergency a bar to holding fair polls

Says EU observer mission but praises some positive factors

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The European Union Election Observation Mission (EUEOM) yesterday said the state of emergency is a negative factor for a free and fair election but hoped that the authorities will lift the emergency prior to the polls and ensure security to all concerned.

It, however, said the positive factors for this year's elections are that the Election Commission is now more independent and people have confidence in the voter list.

Speaking at a press conference at Hotel Sheraton, chief observer of the mission Alexander Graf Lambsdorff said the role of the army is non-existent and they can be

Party in power has to bring opposition to JS
Says Rokia Afzal Rahman

SHAMIM ASHRAF and WASIM BIN HABIB

Former caretaker government adviser Rokia Afzal Rahman has said the responsibility of making the next parliament effective falls to a great extent on the party that will form the government.

"It would be the duty of the next elected government to attract the opposition parties to parliament for making the House effective," she said in an interview with The Daily Star.

She said whichever party comes to power it should not show the winner-takes-all attitude and the government can be considered successful only when it would be able to bring the opposition to parliament.

The former adviser thinks debates among the top leaders of political parties on future strategies can be a great way to resolve the existing political crises in the country.

"We have become politically bankrupt because of the political turmoil the country has been witnessing for quite

BNP, allies yet to finalise seat sharing

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Even after a series of meetings, BNP has yet to reach an agreement with its partners in the four-party alliance on seat sharing for the December 29 parliamentary polls.

Though the deadline for submitting nominations ends tomorrow, leaders of its allies did not know as of last night which seats they are going to contest for.

"We are worried as we didn't yet get any response from the BNP leadership," Abdul Latif Nezami, secretary general of Islami Oikya Jote (IOJ), told The Daily Star yesterday evening.

BNP ends interviews but tightlipped on candidates

RAKIB HASNET SUMAN and RASHIDUL HASAN

BNP completed interviewing its nomination hopefuls yesterday, but did not disclose names of the candidates to avoid intra-party rift.

Sources said the party's parliamentary board has already settled on candidates for at least 150 seats. But the names were not disclosed fearing those who have been denied nominations might create problems and some even stand for election as independent candidates.

However, they added, the high-ups have told some candidates that they would be issued formal letters soon after meetings of the standing committee and four-party alliance.

The meetings scheduled for last night were to seal seat sharing among the allies.

The candidates who were yet to receive letters gathered at the chairperson's Gulshan office last night. They said things would be quite difficult for them if the party delays further when only two days are left for them to file nomination.

"It takes at least nine hours to go to my constituency. As I haven't yet got the letter, it will be pretty hard for me to submit nomination in time," Khandaker Mahbub Hossain, who has been selected for Barguna-2, told reporters at the chairperson's office.

Motahar Hossain Chowdhury of Naogaon-6 told reporters that the secretary general had told them that the party would announce nominee list at the last possible moment to avoid hassles and wrath of the disgruntled leaders.

Sources said besides some new faces and the chairperson's counsels, most of the pro-reformists have secured party nomination.

Rizvi Ahmed, BNP office secretary, last night said the party would decide when and how to

AL now mulls giving tickets to mid-level 'reformists'

SHARIFUL ISLAM and HASAN JAHID TUSHER

Amid pressure from inside and outside the party, Awami League (AL) now mulls nominating some of its mid-level 'reformist' leaders who were initially denied party tickets for contesting the December 29 parliamentary election.

AL President Sheikh Hasina in consultation with the party's parliamentary board members has already brought some changes in the nomination of candidates for different constituencies. She has readied a fresh list of around 15 leaders, sources close to her told The Daily Star yesterday.

The list was prepared after reviewing recommendations made by an expert team that included members of the AL election conducting committee. The team recommended that the parliamentary board review nominations for around 60 constituencies.

The team was formed in the wake of widespread protests
