

"Instead of being fields for practicing global knowledge, and holding colloquiums, symposiums, workshops, discussions and researches, many of the universities have now appeared as the centres for distributing certificates" he lamented. He accentuated on learning ethics together with the applied subjects what had long been absent in the country's education system. Dr. Islam underlined the need for communal effort in attaining the international standard of education.

"Qualitative delivery of education had mostly been dependent on qualified and able faculties", he said. He suggested total refurbishment of the existing teacher hiring system and demanded new conscription system where only the qualified people would get the entry. Professor Islam further added that an updated curriculum, modern teaching system and well-controlled academic calendar are the main things to ensure qualitative education.

In his speech the VC of CU Professor Dr. M Badiul Alam mentioned that university is the highest institution to turn the mass population into human resources. The main responsibilities of a university includes not only preparing the students for the upcoming challenges of life but also making them realize their duties toward mankind through education, ethics and upholding the culture.

permeated with the spirit of internationalism. "The curriculum, subject assortment and field of research of the universities should be made in such a way so that they are able to fulfill the anticipation of the nation," he added.

"I firmly believe that university is the ultimate place to flourish the multi-dimensional talents of the students through different academic and extra-academic activities and to do so CU is working hard to create an environment to ensure the nurturing unfettered intellect of the students, supporting the cultural activities, ensuring proper discipline and eradicating the session jams", he added.

Before the Chancellor pronounced the end of the convocation, the Chancellor and the Vice-Chancellor exchanged crests as a token of appreciation.
