comes to reality

586 beds and ever expanding with 18 state of the art operation theaters.

Khwaja Yunus Ali Medical College (KYAMC) started in May 2005 with its batch of 50 students and this is where I come in. I am proud to be one of the fortunate few who were lucky enough to join this glorious institute. At first I was a little apprehensive about leaving home and coming to a place which I had only a vague idea about. But after I set foot inside the boundary walls of KYAMCH I was absolutely awestruck! What I saw was to be something I had never seen or thought could exist. There were vast expanses of open space with rows of buildings placed in an orderly fashion. The hospital building took my breath away with its three huge minarets and I knew instantly that this was where I truly belonged. Soon I came to terms with the hardships of trying to be a doctor but it was worth it as our teachers were always there to guide us through the maze of medicine. Hostel life needed some getting used to but soon I was just like the others and soon all of the students melted into one big family. Many afternoons were spent playing cricket and soccer in the playgrounds and Sundays (our holiday) were for the laundry! We have no problems in spending our time and we can get every facility one usually associates with a city life. We have a shopping mall at our premises and even an ATM booth though we live in the middle of one of the remotest areas in Bangladesh! We recently came up with our first magazine titled- 'AGONTUK' which was unveiled in a lavish cultural program.

So I hope that the readers will find this article interesting and we at KYAMCH are always eager to receive guests. So what are you waiting for? See you soon at KYAMCH!
