It has to be an election by the people, having the option to choose honest and patriotic candidates with new minds, fresh faces, conviction, and determination.

the rebirth of hope and prosperity for the nation.

As you can see, change is possible. It will depend on whether, together, we can spread and communicate the right message and tell people that they are not alone--many more have the same dream.

People like me in politics can call for hope and change, but to make it happen, it's the youth who must act upon the call.

The way I look at the upcoming election is that it is not about politicians, it's about you and your life and your country. It has to be an election by the people, having the option to choose honest and patriotic candidates with new minds, fresh faces, conviction, and determination.

Change will happen at the voting booth on Election Day. The decision is yours. It can happen in one day--yes, only in one day--if you act upon your dream.

The ground for a re-birth is here, a call for hope is here, a call for change is here. Now, the like-minded must join hands together. It is time to make history. It is up to you.
