Chain of Bond

A photofeature by
Sowrav Das

Sand labourers work along the banks of the Turag River in Gabtali, Dhaka. Most of them have come from different parts of Bangladesh, but it does not look like they are from different places when they are working. They are committed, united, as well as disciplined. It seems as if there is a sweet but hard bond between them. They try, wish and dream of extreme happiness for their families within this bond they create while working together. Perhaps, their freedom is in their disciplined chain of bond.

