

FEATHERY FRIENDS AT RAMNA PARK

TWITTERING of birds has nowadays become rare in the city. Amid this concrete jungle there are still a few patches of greeneries like Ramna Park where the last of the feathery friends dwell in. Some of the magnificent species that visit the park include purple sunbird, golden back woodpecker, magpie robin, common Indian red-vented bulbul, rose-ringed parakeet and the shrike. One can have a glimpse of these birds also at the Botanical Gardern, Peelkhana, around Dhaka Zoo and Dhaka University areas.

Photo: SYED ZAKIR HOSSAIN

