This session was followed by "How to Build a Team" by Fion which focused on teamwork strategies and techniques. Fahim added to this through his "How to Lead a Team" session.

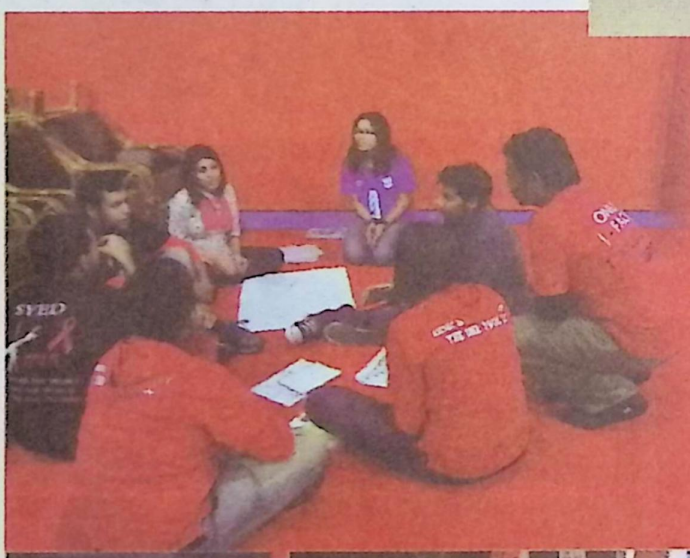

Up next was a fictitious Team Leader election of AIESEC Bangladesh, where two delegates from each team ran for the election for the positions for team leaders, delivered a speech, emphasizing on the competencies they possess that makes them suitable for the position. After that, the groups collectively casted their votes for the candidates.

The next sessions were conducted by externals which was the highlight of the day. The first of the two was taken by Shamnoon Muheb Chowdhury, an AIESEC alumnus currently working for Banglalink. His session involved leadership development and implementation, and a bit of experience sharing of his times as an AIESECer. The second session was conducted by Mohammad Rafiqul Islam, Director, Sales and Marketing, of Acme Laboratories. His double sessions were on "Partnering in Association" and "Communication Skills". He talked about various corporate sectors, and types of partnerships they make and how they are different from one another. In addition, he spoke about business communication and the do's and don'ts of corporate behavior. This was the concluding session for the TR track.

For LR track, NLDS was not a new experience but one they were looking forward to. The delegates in this track consisted of senior members, Executive Body Members of the four local Chapters and Team Leaders of different departments. Having attended many national and international conferences, it was a challenge for the facilitators and organizers to meet the expectations of this group. The facilitators of this track included the Track Manager Eshad Ekram, Kazi Fahim Hossain (MCP), Fakir Mainuddin Hossain (MCVP, Talent Management and Conference Manger), Arman Mahbub (MCVP, External Relations), Farihan F Rahman (MCVP, Incoming Exchange), Nafees Rahman (MCVP, Outgoing Exchange), Towhid Ahmed (MCVP, Expansion), M Jahid Hassan (MCVP, Finance) and Amzad Hussain (alumni).
