The Bloody BDR Mutiny

As the country strives to make Bangladesh a self-sufficient nation after the last elections, the unprecedented bloody BDR mutiny does nothing but tamper with the belief in unity and strength amongst the people of the country. The mutiny was a pre-planned conspiracy against the command of one of the elite forces of the country.

It is a light of hope for the democracy of Bangladesh that instead of mutual mud-slinging, the thundered nation has received immediate response of the ruling and opponent parties to this nearly two-day long rebellion and most importantly, their mutual resolution in bringing out the true causes of this mischief and arranging an exemplary execution of the perpetrators.

Before another disaster happens, the authorities concerned must be alert about internal and external conspiracies.

The barbarity of BDR Jawans is unimaginable and the most brutal incident in the history of Bangladesh. How could this cruel occurrence happen in a civilised nation and by the group of people whose job is to provide security? It is such a shame for our country. I think it was a cold-blooded conspiracy to impede the reputation of the Bangladesh army and the country itself. We had a peaceful and democratic election and now the country is moving forward with new hopes. There might be many out there who are envious of the rise of the new and developed Bangladesh and it was an attempt to destroy the power of military forces. However, I believe that our soldiers will never lose their integrity and be able to recover from this great loss. As Bangladeshis, we must support the army and the government to handle the crisis in a strong and efficient way.
