Millions to vote as India goes to polls today

PALLAB BHATTACHARYA, New Delhi

Capping weeks of an acrimonious campaign, India heads for the first phase of staggered parliamentary elections tomorrow amidst indications of yet another fractured mandate and coalition government.

The opening phase of poll will see voters exercising their franchise in 124 of the 543 Lok Sabha constituencies spread across 16 states and federally-administered territories. As many as 1.715 candidates are in fray in the first phase for which 14.31 crore voters are eligible to cast their votes.

Nine lakh polling staff, helped by paramilitary personnel and armed police will be conducting the polling tomorrow with the help of 3,166 electronic voting machines.

All opinion polls have projected that neither of the country's two main contenders for power--ruling Congress and opposition BJP--will get majority on its own and an array of regional parties are expected to secure nearly 50 per cent of the parliamentary seats.

The results of the world's biggest democratic exercise are expected on May 16 and a hung parliament could trigger an intense period of political haggling and realignment of forces as the main parties scramble to put together a working coalition.

The final phase of polling is scheduled for May 13.

The campaigning was marked by a bitter war of words between Prime Minister Manmohan Singh, Congress chief Sonia Gandhi and her son Rahul on one hand and BJP Prime Ministerial candidate L K Advani and Gujarat Chief Minister Narendra Modi on the other.

The campaign was at times marred by alleged hate speeches with communal overtones and BJP leaders Varun Gandhi, a scion of the Nehru-Gandhi family, in Uttar Pradesh and Ashok Sahu in Orissa was jailed on that charge.

The election campaign has been devoid of a single central issue and Congress has showcased its main achievement as the country's spectacular economic growth, which has averaged more than 8 percent in recent years.

However, Congress has also come under criticism from BJP on the handling of internal security with the opposition alleging that the government was soft towards terrorism.

Don't evict Khaleda from house

Delwar asks govt

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

BNP Secretary General Khandaker Delwar Hossain has asked the government not to mount pressure on Khaleda Zia 'to evict her illegally' from the cantonment house.

Urging the government to change its mind, he said they will cooperate with the government if it concentrates on work to fulfill the election pledge leaving the vindictiveness.

Talking to reporters at his Armanita residence on Tuesday, Delwar criticised the law minister for his comments on serving an eviction notice to the BNP chairperson.

The BNP leader said the government has turned a non-issue into an issue by taking the decision to cancel the lease of Khaleda Zia's legal house.

Asked about law minister's comment, he said the minister's words were illegal and unlawful. It was implied in his words that they were set to oust Khaleda Zia from her legal home by force, Delwar said.

Internal conflict holds back BNP reorganisation

RAKIB HASNET SUMAN

The process of reorganising the main opposition BNP is being greatly obstructed by serious intra-party conflicts between 'reformist' camp, and leaders who have been convicted and are known as corrupt among the party men.

Party insiders said reformist leaders are trying to get into district level convening committees of the party while convicted leaders are opposing their entry or continuation in any party committee.

And leaders who are neither reformists nor convicts want to see honest persons with organising ability in the convening committees to be announced soon for all district units of the Party.

Contacted, BNP Joint Secretary General Goyeshwar Chandra Roy said leaders of convening committees would be selected on the basis of their performance, acceptability and capability. "It does not matter who are reformists and who are not. But sentiment of the party men will be honoured."

Sources in the party said a four-member special committee headed by Chairperson Khaleda Zia is now reviewing the list of proposed leaders of district units, and in some cases crosschecked those contacting them as well as local activists.

Grassroots party leaders from across the country in their month-long exchange of view meetings in February proposed three names for the post of convener and three or four names for joint conveners of district committees.

According to party insiders, 'convicted and corrupt' leaders are mounting pressure on the party leadership to exclude reformists from all

Fighting resumes in Sri Lanka after ceasefire
10 rebels killed

AFP, Colombo

Sri Lankan security forces resumed their offensive against Tamil Tiger rebels in the north of the island yesterday following a brief holiday ceasefire, the two sides said.

The navy attacked two Tiger boats that tried to approach the coastline, killing at least 10 guerrillas, a navy spokesman said, adding that one craft was sunk and the other was captured together with a haul of weapons.

The sea battle came at the end of a 48-hour ceasefire declared by President Mahinda Rajapakse to coincide with the traditional New Year shared by both majority Sinhalese and the minority Tamils.

A military official said government forces were involved in "normal operations" aimed at finishing off the last of the Tigers, who are facing defeat after 37 years of fighting for an independent Tamil homeland.
