

Yen rises on fears about economic, flu

AFP, Tokyo
The yen was higher in Asian trade Monday as fears about the health of US banks and the spread of a deadly swine flu virus prompted renewed demand for safe-haven assets.

said Sumitomo Trust and Banking chief strategist Saburo Matsumoto.
US authorities Friday revealed the methodology behind the tests, which call for a capital buffer to help banks withstand a worse-than-expected 3.3 percent economic contraction in 2009.

US firms in China expect benefits in Beijing stimulus

AFP, Beijing
Two thirds of American companies operating in China expect to benefit from a huge stimulus package unveiled by Beijing to counter the global crisis, a US business association said Monday.
