CYCLONE, TIDAL SURGE KILLED 1.4 LAKH ON THIS DAY IN '91

Promises to protect people gone with the wind

A CORRESPONDENT, Cox's Bazar

Eighteen years after the April 29, 1991 cyclone and tidal surge that left a trail of destruction in the coastal areas, arrangement for protecting people from such calamities sees very little improvement.

"I grabbed a coconut tree when I was being carried away by a high tidal wave. As strong wind uprooted the tree I held a piece of floating bamboo and managed to save my life," said Md Yahya Khan Kutubi of Chhaderghona village under Uttar Dhurung union of Kutubdia upazila in Cox's Bazar.

He lost 14 close relatives including his two sisters, grandfather, grandmother, aunt and uncle on that fateful night.

Around 1.38 lakh people lost their lives as the cyclone with speed of 225-kilometre per hour accompanied by 35-feet high tidal surge battered 257 unions in 20 upazilas of 15 coastal districts at midnight on that day.

Cox's Bazar, Moheshkhali, Kutubdia, Anwara, Banskhali and Sandwip were among the most affected areas.

If a cyclone of that intensity or tidal surge of that height hits now, the number deaths would be higher as the situation regarding protection of people from cyclones and tidal surges have remained almost the same in the coastal areas of Cox's Bazar, said several locals.

"The cyclone in 1991 washed away 21 kilometre of 40 kilometre embankment around the island. Of it 17 kilometre is still open. Of the 92 cyclone shelters, 50 have become unfit for use due to lack of renovation and maintenance," said Shahrar Chowdhury, chairman of Dhurung union under Kutubdia upazila.

"The mangrove forests built to protect the coasts have been destroyed to make shrimp enclosures. Several villages are unindated if the normal tide of the sea gets a little higher," Moqbul Ahmed, chairman of Dhalghata union in Moheshkhali, said.

Water Development Board (WDB) and local sources said, the 1991 cyclone washed away about 150 kilometre embankment of the WDB in Teknaf, Moheshkhali, Kutubdia and other coasts. About Tk 150 crore has been spent during the last 17 years to repair the embankments, but the progress is very little.

A WDB official requesting anonymity said, "Of about 460 km embankment in eight upazilas of the district, 55 km are risky. Seventeen kilometre embankment is now open. Tidal water enters through the areas and inundate more than 50 villages."

After the 1991 cyclone, 534 shelters were constructed in different coasts in eight upazilas of the district but 154 of them have now become unfit for use, sources said.

Additional deputy commissioner (General) of Cox's Bazar, Md Omar Faruk said efforts are on to repair and renovate the unfit cyclone shelters and construct 277 more shelters.

"Mangrove forests work as safety to the people of coastal areas during cyclone or tidal surge. Although Coastal Forest Department created mangrove forest spending huge amount of money every year some influential people destroy it for making shrimp hatchery and salt fields. In this way lakhs of people are pushed into danger and risk," said Cox's Bazar Environment Movement President Sharmin Afroz Reshmin.

Alongside forestation in the coastal area, adequate number of cyclone shelters should be constructed and risky and unfit centres should be renovated at an urgent basis, environmental scientist Dr Ansarul Karim said.

Ctg CNG-run 3-wheelers on strike

CU CORRESPONDENT

Agitating CNG-run auto-rickshaw drivers kept their three-wheelers off the road in the port city for the second day yesterday.

Due to the strike, commuters have been facing serious shortage of vehicles and were seen waiting at all the stoppages in the city yesterday.

Several hundred drivers went on rampage and vandalised over 50 vehicles during the wildcat strike on Monday demanding an end to, what they said 'police harassment'. The drivers also locked into a clash with automobile traders on Sheikh Mujib Road that left at least 30 people injured, including police.

Chittagong Metropolitan Auto-rickshaw and Auto-tempo Workers Welfare Union General Secretary Harunur Rashid told The Daily Star over phone that they didn't enforced the strike but the drivers willingly continued it.

Deputy Commissioner of the traffic department Moynul Islam could not specify any step taken to sit in any meeting with the union leaders or mitigate the public sufferings till filing of the report at 6.00 pm yesterday.

"We hope they would bring the vehicles on road soon," said Moynul, adding, "none would be allowed to keep the city commuters hostage."

The union leaders held a press conference at Chittagong Press Club at 5.00 pm but failed to clarify their stance on observing the strike.

Twenty-seven people have been arrested while seven cases filed with city's Kotwali, Khulshi, Double Mooring and Halishahar police stations in this connection.
