Tajuddin's thought-provoking lines and forms

TAKIR HOSSAIN

Last year, one of the recognised Bangladeshi painters Tajuddin Ahmed migrated to Canada. Now he lives and works in Toronto. At present, he is in Dhaka and has brought a number of paintings along with him. The works carry his individual sign but some changes from his previous works are clearly noticeable. The change mainly technical and sometimes it seems he is more conscious about space and forms. Some unfamiliar objects also can be easily seen in his works. He is ardently fond of experimenting and trying out new forms and techniques. His next exhibition will take place at

Muse Atelier Adzak International Arts Space, Paris, France.

From the beginning, he has adored the creation of something novel and innovative, which is very close to the metropolitan community. He hails from Rokonpur under Laxmibazar, one of the historical parts of our Old Dhaka, an over-populated and very congested area. The place is also recognised for ancient buildings and architectural heritages. These images gave him an opportunity to closely observe the beloved city. The changing city, urban life, socio-economic structure, common people and their way of life tremendously affected his mind. All these things are meticulously used in his works. He began his career as a semi-abstract painter. With the passage of time, Tajuddin has refined himself. Consequently, new lines, forms and different types of objects have been added to his works.

Tajuddin is an artist, who is very conscious about the art movements in different parts of the world. The chance he got to tour many countries, visiting their galleries and museums, has allowed him to intimately explore the works of the master painters of those countries.

Tajuddin involved himself in the contemporary art movement of Bangladesh with zeal, courage and creativity. He always feels comfortable working with a large canvas according to his theme and composition. His work is clarified by a powerful engagement with figure, object and space, and with bold and sweeping brushstrokes. He has played with texture and illusion for the surface effects. Space has been created on the canvas although some of the colours have appeared flat in his works. The tonal plus linear approach gives his work a different quality and distinct look.

Tajuddin graduated from the Institute of Fine Arts, University of Dhaka (now Faculty of Fine Arts) in 1980. He has held seven solo exhibitions in France, the Netherlands and Bangladesh. He took part in 28 major group exhibitions in Paris, South Africa, Kolkata, New Delhi, Sydney, Islamabad and Dhaka.

The first TV show on advertising "A for Advertising" will be telecast tonight on RTV at 11 pm. The show will be hosted by Razeeb Hasan Chowdhury. Grameenphone's Chief Communication Officer Rubaba Dowla will be present as special guest in the first episode.

scoff at Sabur, who never retaliates. One day Nurjahan reveals many things about herself to Sabur. This time Sabur looks at Nurjahan and he is inexplicably moved. The next day he beats up the errant boys. The story takes a twist when unfortunately one boy dies and Sabur is sent to jail for seven years.
