CHALAN BEEL CONVENTION

No project harmful to environment

Says planning minister

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Planning Minister AK Khandaker has said his ministry would not approve any project that will harm the environment.

He stressed the need for revamping the rivers by narrowing the width and making them deeper through dredging.

A deep river can supply water to surrounding water bodies including canals and raise the level of ground water, he added.

The minister was speaking at the first National Chalan Beel Convention at the auditorium of Planning and Development Academy in the city.

At the convention organised jointly by Bangladesh Paribesh Andolan (Bapa) and Bangladesh Environment Network (BEN), social workers, environmentalists and engineers blamed the construction of ill-conceived embankments and regulators for destroying the Boral river and Chalan beel, one of the richest wetland of the country.

They said Boral, originating from the Padma at Charghat in Rajshahi, flows around Chalan beel in Pabna and Natore districts and establishes a link among Padma, Jamuna and Chalan beel.

But the unplanned embankments constructed during the 1980s at places along 120km of Boral river from Charghat to Nurnagar of Chatmohar obstructed its natural flow, they added.

The speakers demanded the removal of these 'unplanned embankments' to regain its normal flow and save the wetlands.

Chalan beel, which was once brimmed with water, now devoid of any water, said Maqbul Hossain MP, adding that its huge fish resources have also been lost.

"We want revival of Chalan beel, Boral river and all other rivers in the country," he said.

The speakers blamed the Water Development Board (WDB) for taking up projects without considering their impact on the environment especially on rich water bodies.

Bapa President Prof Muzaffer Ahmad stressed the need for an integrated water management system to avert water-related problems.

Blaming indiscriminate construction of sluice gates for the death of many rivers, he called for experts' review of all existing sluice gates.

Abdul Kuddus MP, Bapa General Secretary Dr Mohammad Abdul Matin, member-secretary Sharif Jamil and BEN representatives also spoke at the convention.

Parents of missing Buet student demand justice

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Parents of a student of Bangladesh University of Engineering and Technology (Buet), who have been missing for about 11 months, at a press conference yesterday alleged that police did not arrest the accused in a case filed in connection with their missing son.

At the press conference at Dhaka Reporters' Unity, parents of Mashrur Moin Sani, a 4th year architecture student of Buet, alleged that although they had filed a case against their missing son's classmate Bhaskar Ahmed and his father Zia Ahmed with Paltan Police Station, police are yet to arrest the accused or quiz them.

Abdul Moin, father of Sani, said his son and Bhaskar went to India on July 8 in 2008 and in the second week of August Bhaskar's father informed him that Bhaskar and Sani had gone to Nepal where they were teaching orphans English and drawing at Angel Heaven in Katmandu.

However, on August 27 in 2008, Bhaskar's elder brother quoting him said that Sani went missing on August 12 when he and Bhaskar along with eight others went to the hills in a remote area in Rasua district.

However, when Sani's parents went to Nepal, the Nepali guide of Sani and Bhaskar told them Sani did not go to the hills, he said.

A letter of Bhaskar written to Sani was found at their hotel room in Nepal, which proves that Bhaskar knew the whereabouts of Sani, Moin said.

He said if police interrogate Bhaskar properly, they would find out the clues and his son.

He alleged that being an influential person, Zia Ahmed influenced police.

Abdul Moin and his wife Zebunnesa demanded impartial investigation into the incident and immediate arrest of the accused to rescue their son.

They had earlier met the prime minister in February and informed her of the incident, they added.
