New SC judge alleges move to remove him from HC

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Newly appointed Supreme Court Judge Surendra Kumar Sinha yesterday said an attempt was made to illegally remove him from the High Court during the past caretaker government rule.

He made the remark at a reception by the Supreme Court Bar Association and the Attorney General's Office.

The felicitation to four new apex court judges took place at the Appellate Division's court No. 1 shortly after they took oath yesterday afternoon.

Referring to the bid for his removal, Justice Sinha said, "You, the members of the Bar stood at citadel behind me and fought with the rulers for establishing rule of law and encouraged me not to budge to their unconstitutional move."

Dangerous living in shadows of landslide

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Khagrachari

At least 1000 people live in imminent danger of landslides in Khagrachari town as the monsoons set in with rain pouring even yesterday evening.

The 150 families living at the foot of hills in Kadamtali were identified as extremely vulnerable after several landslides in the area left over 50 people injured last year.

Heavy damage to property also occurred at the time.

Khagrachari Hill District Council (KHDC), the Public Works Department (PWD) and police jointly carried out the survey in the area last year and identified about 150 families living under high risk of landslides.

The people living in Kadamtali foothill area, and also slopes of the hill, are very poor and some also live inside the small shops they have set up here.

BDR MUTINY

Charge sheet in Sept, 3,000 jawans found involved

SHARIFUL ISLAM

The charge sheet in BDR mutiny case might be submitted in mid-September by CID, while a military investigation found 3,000 border security force jawans' involvement in the incident.

Law Minister Shafique Ahmed told reporters after an inter-ministerial meeting on Wednesday that the CID investigation is nearing completion.

CID Special Superintendent of Dhaka Metro Zone Mir Shahidul Islam however declined to give an approximate timeframe for submitting the charge sheet when The Daily Star inquired.

A CID investigator said about 100 Bangladesh Rifles (BDR) jawans might have been directly involved in the killings of army officers during the mutiny.

CONSTITUTIONAL CHANGES

BNP, 9 other parties seek 6 more months

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

BNP and nine other political parties have sought at least six months' additional time to ratify the provisional changes in their constitutions and submit those to the Election Commission as they cannot complete the task by the July 25 deadline.

On the pleas, Chief Election Commissioner ATM Shamsul Huda yesterday said the EC would ask the government to amend the Representation of the People Order to provide additional time to the parties.

Thirty-eight of the 39 registered political parties brought provisional changes in their constitutions to meet registration criteria before the December 29 parliamentary election, promising to ratify the changes within six months from the first sitting of the ninth parliament.

With the new parliament having begun its journey on January 25, the deadline for the task is set on July 25.

However, none of the parties has so far taken any significant initiative in this regard.

A delegation of the main opposition BNP yesterday met with EC officials and sought another six months' time up to January 25 to complete the entire procedure for holding the party's national council to ratify the provisional changes in its constitution.

Bangladesh Jatiya Party and Islamic Oikya Jote--components of the BNP-led four-party alliance--also sought six months' additional time while others sought six to 10 months' time.

On the time extension pleas, Chief Election Commissioner Huda yesterday told reporters that the EC would review the applications and ask the government to amend the Representation of the People Order to extend the timeframe so that political parties can

Hasina elected Nam vice-chair
She asks Malaysian PM to recruit more Bangladeshis

UNB, Sharm El Sheikh, Egypt

Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina has been elected vice-chair of the Non-Aligned Movement for the next three years.

Hasina was made vice-chair when she was presiding over the general debate on 'Current Global Financial and Economic Crisis' on the opening day of the two-day summit of the forum that got off to a ceremonial start in this Egyptian resort city on Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the PM attended the second-day sessions of the 15th Nam summit and presided over part of the opening programmes of the day.

Besides, she had a meeting with Malaysian Prime Minister Najib Abdul Razak on the sidelines of the summit in the meeting room of the summit venue, Maritime Congress Centre, yesterday morning.

During the meeting, Hasina requested the Malaysian prime minister to recruit more manpower from Bangladesh and ensure all facilities for professional betterment of the Bangladeshi expatriates working in the Asean country.

In reply, Najib assured Hasina of ensuring necessary facilities for the Bangladeshi people there.

Young blood likely to rule next AL central body

HASAN JAHID TUSHER

The young and dedicated leaders who served the party bravely during the post-1/11 days are likely to win vital posts in the next central committee of ruling Awami League.

The national council on July 24 may also see changes in Presidium, highest policymaking body in AL, and organising secretary- and secretary-level positions.

Those who worked against the party during the caretaker government rule and those who came from different leftist parties may find themselves in a tight corner, said AL insiders.

AL President Sheikh Hasina's sister Shekha Rehana and son Sajeeb Wazed Joy may be included in the new committee for their behind-the-scene work for the party in absence of Hasina, said a source close to the AL chief.

Rehana might be made a presidium member and Joy an executive member of the central committee. "It's pretty sure she [Rehana] is having a place in the committee as the time is ripe for her to enter politics," observed the source.

Meanwhile, the AL ranks keep wondering about who is going to be elected general secretary and what will become of the party stalwarts who attempted to bring about reforms in AL with Hasina behind bars.

Some sources say Matia Chowdhury, a presidium member, might be given the post of general secretary in recognition of her service to the party in troubled times.

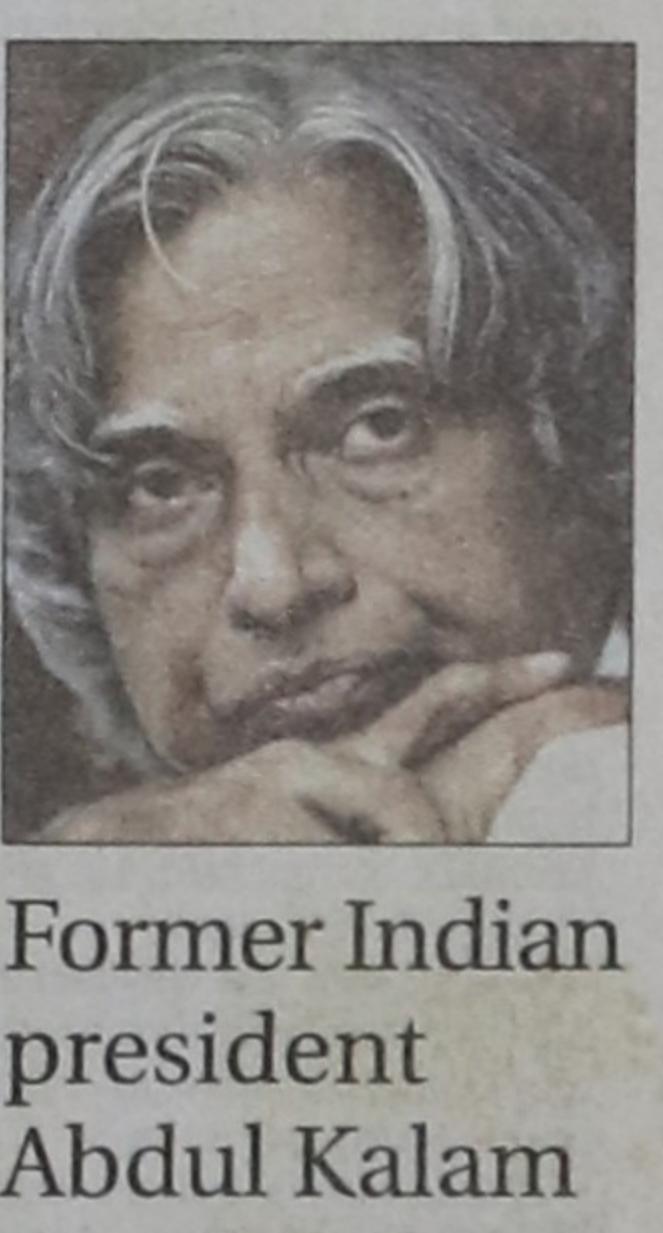

"If she agrees, she might come out as the next general secretary," said a close aide to Hasina.

Matia, also agriculture minister, however told The Daily Star, "I'm not a candidate for the post. I know my limits. The prime minister has given me charge of the agriculture ministry and I want to work sincerely there," she said.

Asked about the formation of the committee, Matia said she thinks it would be a mix of youth and experience.

Meanwhile, some other sources said one of the incumbent AL joint general secretaries--
