Mankind is the most gracious and precious gift of God created with a view to representing Him in this world. So mankind is the image of God. Unlimited strength and capabilities have been given to mankind. When this small pack of mankind does his job with utmost effort combined with divine blessings, this brings forth great success. We believe, "The highest art in human life is to awaken the dormant will force lying inside within and to nurse it to face the trials of life manfully with courage and determination."

In UITS, our students, teachers and the management together work to create a group of enlightened people to serve the nation to make our independence worth. Material success only cannot bring peace and happiness in the society until it mixes with the spiritual attachment. As we know, religion without science is lame and science without religion is blind. On this sacred occasion I would reiterate that Divine blessings mixed with hard work, backed by good intentions, make miracles.

Achieving a happy life in this and the world after needs combination of both the worldly and spiritual development. We all in UITS are trying to achieve that goal.

May God bless all of us with His divine Peace, Happiness and prosperity (PHP).

Amen.

Globalization has major ramifications for our universities-what we teach our student, what experiences we offer them, and how we build knowledge by drawing insights from diverse disciplines that will enable us to better understand the global world. The universities must adapt the curriculum to train students to be global citizens, acculturated in the larger environment in which they will live and work. It will mean building on the strong foundations of the university to make and firmly preserve its distinctive liberal arts traditions. The challenge for the universities, therefore, is not only to continue to train and discipline the minds of the students and to provide them with the tools of life-long learning, but also to broaden their education through academic exposure and first hand living and working experiences in diverse and multicultural settings. The University of Information Technology and Sciences (UITS) is a bold attempt to meet these challenges. It provides quality higher education that is affordable and accessible. I join the students and parents in congratulating the UITS on its first convocation.

Vice Chancellor, UITS
Professor Dr. Mohammed Abdul Aziz

It is indeed a great pleasure for me having the opportunity to join our graduating students who have worked so hard and so well to celebrate the first Convocation of UITS to be held on the 20th July, 2009. You are the first fortunate ones to be the vanguard of our values- the values of intellectual excellence, moral integrity, and social responsibility.

Producing skilled and globally focused workforce is the most important ingredient to any nation in a world where competitors can come from next door or around the world. Today, possessing knowledge and having the ability to use knowledge worldwide is critical to personal and social progress. UITS is engaged in the process of fostering an environment that attracts, sustains and retains creative, imaginative, and globally resourceful individuals. We are aware of the role of higher education as universities are the primary suppliers of human resources.

In the context of globalization, generation of new ideas, technologies, methods, products and services is of crucial importance to sustain competitive advantage. This has resulted in even greater demands on universities to develop deep-rooted entrepreneurial cultures that are international in scope, as the creation, transfer and use of knowledge are ongoing and evolving process. Likewise, the growing competition among universities and other entities that now develop, distribute and market education are compelling us to seek unique ways to differentiate our programs from others.

To meet these growing challenges, UITS is seeking ways to further connect their faculty, students and outside communities in a strategic infrastructure where ideas flow, new initiatives blossom, flexibility abounds and global reputation expands. Creation of knowledge, its storage and dissemination in the international context are seen as the primary task of the 21st century universities.

You have been a part of us and stay in touch with us. UITS will continue to provide quality education at affordable cost as our commitment to the nation. We would urge upon you to share your experience with us "in the transformation of Bangladesh into an economically prosperous, happy, peaceful and secure country" as is the expectation of Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam.

Congratulations! Future will be better than thy past

Prime Minister
GOVERNMENT OF THE PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF BANGLADESH

I am happy to learn that the University of Information Technology and Sciences (UITS) is going to hold its Convocation 2009 on 20 July. On this occasion, I extend my sincere greetings to the graduating students, their parents and the faculties of UITS.

The new realities of globalisation process reinforce the need for expanding higher education. The educated society is better equipped to face the challenges of the 21st century through flexibility and innovation. There is a need for the continued expansion of higher education to meet the national development goals, and social progress.

I would urge upon the graduates of UITS to devote themselves to the service of the nation with a missionary zeal and spirit.

I wish the Convocation a grand success.
