Ustad Allauddin Khan's 37th death anniversary today

Sur Samrat Ustad Allauddin Khan

OUR CORRESPONDENT, Brahmanbaria

The 37th death anniversary of world-renowned musician, Sur Samrat Ustad Allauddin Khan will be held in Brahmanbaria today.

Brahmanbaria Municipality and Sur Samrat Ustad Allauddin Sangeetangan will hold separate programmes to mark the day. Brahmanbaria Municipality Auditorium will be named after Ustad Allauddin Khan and it is likely to be inaugurated by a local MP, Advocate Lutful Hye.

Ustad Allauddin Khan was born in 1862 at Shibpur village under Nabinagar upazila of the district. He was a multi-instrumentalist, composer and one of the most renowned music teachers of the 20th Century in Indian classical music.

During his lifetime, he composed several ragas and laid the foundation of a modern Maihar Gharana. Amongst his recordings, which are rare, the most important ones are those he recorded with the All India Radio in 1959-60.

He was the father of sarod maestro Ali Akbar Khan and Annapurna Devi and guru to Ravi Shankar, Nikhil Banerjee, Vasant Rai, Pannalal Ghosh, Bahadur Khan, Sharan Rani and other influential musicians. He himself was a disciple of many great musicians, including Gopal Chandra Banerjee, Lobo, Munne Khan, and most importantly after a lot of struggle managed to become a shagird (disciple) of the legendary veena player, Wazir Khan of Rampur.

He was awarded the Padma Vibhushan, India's second highest civilian honour in 1971, and prior to that in 1954, the Sangeet Natak Akademi awarded him with its highest honour, the Sangeet Natak Akademi Fellowship for lifetime contribution to Indian music.

Ustad Allauddin Khan died in 1972 in Maihar, India.

Drik celebrates two decades

CULTURAL CORRESPONDENT

Leading photographic agency and gallery Drik celebrates its 20th anniversary this year. To mark the special occasion, a two-day series of events begins today.

The celebration programme begins this morning at 10am with a review of portfolios of selected artists. Renowned Indian photographer Raghu Rai will review the portfolios. The programme will be held at Pathshala - The South Asian Media Academy and Institute of Photography. Rai will also attend a couple of other programmes, as he will inaugurate an exhibition, "20 Years of Drik," featuring two decades of the institution's activities, at 5:30pm today.

On the same day, Drik will introduce the first of the 'Golam Kasem Daddy Lecture Series.' Dhali Al Mamoon, artist and teacher of the Fine Arts Department, Chittagong University, will deliver the speech.

On the second day (September 7), a photo exhibition, titled "India" featuring works of Raghu Rai, will be inaugurated at the Bengal Gallery of Fine Arts, Dhanmondi. The exhibition will continue till September 13.

The second day's programme also includes an open forum on 'Delhi in Contrasts and Confluences.' The forum by Rai, on his latest book, will take place at Drik Gallery from 3pm.

Drik, sanskrit for 'vision,' started its journey as a photographic agency run by a small group of people. The agency set out to represent a group of media professionals.

Drik's training programmes range from providing education to working class children to grooming the region's brightest young photojournalists through Pathshala, its educational wing. Top photographers from Magnum, National Geographic, Time, Contact Press Images and other leading media organisations make up the visiting faculty at Pathshala.

The organisation also holds 'Chobi Mela,' the biggest photography festival in Asia.

A slap in the face: Oprah vs Chris Brown

Oprah Winfrey (top) and Chris Brown

In the forthcoming issue of People magazine, Chris Brown talks about his life since the February altercation with then-girlfriend Rihanna. The issues the pop star discussed included his feelings for Rihanna, his brief reconciliation with her after the incident and how he doesn't think he'll hit a woman again.

But Brown also addressed a domestic-abuse-focused episode of "The Oprah Winfrey Show" that aired just after the assault, saying he thinks the show could have portrayed him in a better light. "I commend Oprah on being like, 'This is a problem,' but it was a slap in my face," Brown told the magazine. "I did a lot of stuff for her, like going to Africa and performing for her school. She could have been more helpful, like, 'OK, I'm going to help both of these people out.'"

In a statement released to TMZ on September 3, Oprah responded to Brown's sentiments about the show. "Oprah is very appreciative that Chris Brown performed at her school, but she takes domestic abuse very seriously," the statement reads. "She hopes he gets the counselling he needs."

In the People interview, Brown said he is meeting with a counsellor. "If I do have an anger problem, I will work with my counsellor and hopefully channel my anger into something like dancing," he said. "I'm going to counselling. I want to understand my feelings. I don't think that I'd get that mad again. I'd walk away. This has matured me."
