Red-tape stops 3 new roads

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Dhaka City Corporation (DCC) is yet to start the construction work of the three important roads in the city due to bureaucratic tangle though the initiative was taken in 2004.

The roads are Grameen Bank to Pangu Hospital via west Agargaon, Darussalam to Kachukhet Road crossing Rokeya Sarani and Hazaribagh Kalanagar to Jafarbadh Bheribadh.

Rajuk also has failed to construct two roads from Notre Dame College to Janapath Sarak via behind the Bangladesh Bank colony and Hosaf Towar, Malibagh to Janapath.

The construction work of four more roads-- Bijoy Sarani to Nabisco, Ring road around the Hatirjheel and Zia Colony of Dhaka cantonment to Mirpur cantonment via behind section-12 of Mirpur and 300 feet wide road from Kuril Biswa Road to Purbachal are, however, going on.

Executive Engineer of Zone-7 of DCC Abdur

Razzak said the proposed road stretching from Grameen Bank to Pangu Hospital via west Agargaon is now under process of land acquisition.

The proposal on land acquisition for Darussalam to Kachukhet Road has been waiting for approval by the ministry concerned for last three months.

A 3.64 km long and 100 feet wide road from Darussalam to Ansar Camp to Kachukhet Road crossing Rokeya Sarani will be constructed at a cost of Tk 199 crore.

This road will reduce the traffic jams on section-10 and section-1 of Mirpur as it will connect its east and west portions, said Razzak.

Both the roads were taken under the master plan of Rajuk in 1995 for which Rajuk did not give approval to construct any building in the area but an unplanned urbanisation is going on, he said.

50 killed in spate of Afghan attacks

2 US soldiers among the dead

AP, Kabul

Nearly 50 Afghan civilians, security forces and militants were killed in a spate of attacks around the war-torn country, including an overnight military raid targeting insurgents in the increasingly violent north, officials said yesterday. A roadside bomb killed two US troops in the east.

Two Taliban suicide bombers attacked an office of intelligence officers in the southern city of Kandahar, killing one agent. In Kabul province, gunfire broke out after an apparent spat between a US service member and an Afghan police officer, seriously wounding both.

A roadside bomb in eastern Afghanistan killed two US service members, said Capt Elizabeth Mathias, as US military spokeswoman. No other details were released.

Taliban attacks have risen steadily the last three years as have deaths of Afghan civilians caught in the grinding war between the Taliban and US and Nato forces.

Taliban violence which had been largely confined to the country's south and east in the years after the 2001 US invasion has spread to the country's northern provinces this year.

Coalition and Afghan forces Saturday killed 11 militants during an overnight raid in northern Kunduz province, said Abdul Razaq Yaqoubi, the provincial police chief.

The operation targeted Taliban fighters who helped foreign fighters and suicide bombers infiltrate the region, said Mathias.

She said "a number" of militants were killed after the forces exchanged fire. Roadside bomb-making material, ammunition and rocket-propelled grenades were found at the compound, she said.

The raid did not appear to be connected with the kidnapping
