

New rules for naming educational instts

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Naming private educational institutions after national leaders will now require permission from the head of the government, the education ministry said yesterday.

Persons willing to set up school, college or madrasa and name them after Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman and his family members, four national leaders, seven Bir Shresthas, Language Movement martyrs and recognised national leaders (dead or alive) must apply to the education ministry with requisite documents, according to an official handout.

The education ministry will scrutinise the applications and then submit them to the head of the government.

The institutions can be named after the national leaders if the head of the government gives permission, the handout said, adding that there will be no need for any payment of money in such cases.
