Sultan's death anniversary
observed in Narail

TAREK ALAM, Narail

A daylong programme, marking the 15th death anniversary of master artist SM Sultan, was held here last Saturday. SM Sultan Foundation and the Narail district administration jointly organised the programme.

The day began with placing wreaths at the mausoleum of the artist. Among the highlights of the day were a discussion on life and works of the artist, and an art competition for children.

Md. Anwar Hossain, Deputy Commissioner of Narail, inaugurated the art competition. The competition was held at Shishu Swarg in Masimdia village of the district. A total of 250 children from different educational institutions participated in the contest.

The discussion on Sultan's life and works was presided over by Sharif Atiar Rahman, the Deputy Commissioner was the chief guest. Among others,

SM Sultan
Professor Munshi Hafizur
Rahman, member secretary,

SM Sultan Foundation; Advocate Iqbal Hossain Sikder; Ashikur Rahman and M Yusuf Ali spoke on the occasion.

Speakers were of the view that Sultan portrayed the rural Bangladesh and its people in an inimitable way. His art was accessible to all. This simplicity of his work made him popular with the masses. The presence of his birth and death anniversary programmes proves that every year.

Sultan's paintings depict rural Bangladesh and its people in an inimitable way.

Cultural organisation 'Amra Shurjomukhi' arranged a solo musical programme featuring singer Parveen Sultana at the main auditorium, National Museum on October 10. The event was well attended by cultural personalities and dignitaries who felicitated the artiste on the occasion.

At the show, Parveen Sultana's repertoire included a diverse array of songs -- from folk to patriotic, to covers of popular Hindi and Bangla film songs, to ghazals and Rabindra Sangeet.

Jennifer Lopez reveals new alter ego, latest song

Has Jennifer Lopez aka J. Lo taken on yet another identity?

It sure sounds that way judging by a new single, credited to an artiste named "Lola." The singer sounds suspiciously like the woman who heavy-breathed through hits like "If you had my love" and "Jenny from the block."

The song, titled "Fresh out the oven," turned up on the Web recently with credit given only to Lola. Produced by the Neptunes, the track has a lustful dance beat and features not just the singer's baby's breath vocals, but rhyms from the currently hot Latin rapper Pitbull.

Last month, Pitbull gave an interview to MTV in which he talked about collaborating with Lopez. "Definitely something very, very sexy," Pit said of the track. "Produced by Pharrell, look out for it. It's kind of like Eyes Wide Shut."

Pit also told the network that a video for the song had already been shot.

A Web site and Twitter account were launched today teasing the character with the tagline "Who Is Lola?" The site features a clip of a woman, who can't fully be seen, dancing.

A source at Lopez's record company, Epic, admitted the obvious -- that J.Lo and Lola are one and the same. "It's a fun track she did for the streets," said the source. "It's not the first single."

Presumably the source was referring to the first single from the new album she's rumoured to be working on.

Her last album, 2007's "Brave," bombed on the charts. Then again, that one she cut under her own name.
