Cooperatives law to be amended

Says LGRD minister

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The government has taken an initiative to amend the law on cooperatives to make them more democratic and accountable, said LGRD Minister Syed Ashraful Islam yesterday.

Work is also underway to introduce a more friendly cooperatives guidelines, he said at a programme marking the 38th National Cooperatives Day. The Cooperatives Department organised the event at the Bangabandhu International Conference Centre.

Referring to corruption in the cooperatives sector during the previous government, the minister said that honesty, transparency and accountability are required to achieve success in the cooperative system, which can help ensure economic emancipation of the people.

Presenting the keynote paper, economist Prof Dr Abul

Barkat said the government should promote cooperatives activities among farmers, as agriculture is the primary livelihood of the country.

Cooperatives activities can play a major role in increasing agricultural production, thereby reducing price of essential commodities, he said, adding that cooperatives can also create self-employment opportunities.

Advocate Md Rahmat Ali MP, chairman of parliamentary standing committee on LGRD ministry, Samar Chandra Paul, secretary of Rural Development and Cooperatives Division, Suraiya Begum, registrar, Directorate of Cooperatives, and Sheikh Nadim Hossain, Chairman of Bangladesh Cooperatives Union, also spoke.

Other speakers said Bangladesh has a successful story of cooperatives activities.
