'Reform civil service for good governance'

METRO DESK

Former deputy foreign minister and high commissioner Wajid Ali Khan Panni on Wednesday said efforts for good governance should start from reform in civil service, says a press release.

"We need a competent and efficient cadre of civil servants to address the challenges and opportunities of globalisation and free market economy," he said.

Panni said this at a lecture on 'Good governance and politicisation of bureaucracy: Need for a new approach' at Independent University, Bangladesh (IUB) in the city.

Organised by Development Studies Group of IUB, the lecture session was chaired by Vice Chancellor Prof. Bazlul Mubin Chowdhury.

The session was also attended by IUB Pro-Vice Chancellor Prof. M. Omar Rahman.

Panni depicted a clear picture of present political and bureaucratic situation of the country.

He said: "The government must tolerate the opposition and make a consensus with them on all important issues," adding that there should be a disciplined law and order machinery to check any anarchic politics which often threatens the very survival of the political system.
