

Deal with Tipai issue properly to protect national interest

Panelists tell BBC Sanglap

STAFF CORRESPONDENT, Sylhet

Speakers at a BBC Sanglap (dialogue) in Sylhet city yesterday said the Tipaimukh issue should be dealt properly to safeguard the national interest.

The issue should be raised with highest importance with the Indian authorities, they said, adding that it should be raised at international forums if necessary.

Former adviser Sultana Kamal, Sylhet Mayor Badar Uddin Ahmed Kamran, city BNP Convener Dr Shahriar Hossain Chowdhury and educationist Dr Kabir Hossain Chowdhury were the panel discussants at BBC Bangladesh Sanglap at the Luckatooa Golf on the outskirts of the city.

The speakers said the much-talked-about Tipai project in the Indian state of Manipur would cause a havoc-like situation in greater Sylhet region and its adjoining areas.

Strong protests must be raised against Tipaimukh dam, they said, adding that India should rethink on the Tipai issue for the greater interest of the region.

They further said that Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina would have to discuss the issue with the Indian authorities during her official visit to the neighbouring country this month.

Replying to questions, the panelists said Upazila parishads need to be made more pragmatic as well as practical to ensure people's participation in the process of taking decisions locally.

Making lawmakers advisers to the chairmen would not accrue much benefit to upazila parishads, rather it would create more complexities, they asserted.

They said the upazila chairmen and vice chairmen who were elected 10 months ago need to be fully empowered at the earliest.

The discussants at the dialogue expressed deep concern over the two latest launch capsize which took a heavy toll of lives in Bhola and Kishoreganj districts.

Strict enforcement of the existing laws could reduce such waterway accidents, they asserted.

The staff and others responsible for the launch accidents must be given punishment through proper investigations, the panelists said.

Workers are busy sprucing up the premises of Rayer Bazar Martyred Intellectuals' Memorial in the city yesterday ahead of the Martyred Intellectuals Day to be observed on December 14.

Leadership quality of youths vital for development

Say speakers

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

The leadership quality of youths needs to be sharpened to develop the country fast, said speakers at the launching ceremony of a month-long youth leadership programme in the city yesterday.

They called on the youths to pay back their motherland by doing good deeds for it where they were brought up.

"Our society has a dearth of leadership, which needs to be present at every sphere for development," said Manzoor Hasan, director of Institute of Governance Studies of Brac University.

"Our common notion is that leadership should prevail at the top echelon, but the fact is that it requires to have at every level of a society which wants to progress," he said at the function as the guest of honour.

Bangladesh Youth Leadership Centre (BYLC) organised the programme where a total of 42 students from general, English and madrasa backgrounds participated.

Foreign Secretary Mohamed Mijarul Quayes spoke as chief guest at the function titled 'Building bridges through leadership training' at Biam auditorium.

The secretary said there were two kinds of people in society: one group of people build wall round them and isolate themselves while the other group makes bridge to communicate with people.

"Leaders are those who bridge network and relate themselves with the dreams of others," he added.

Giving much emphasis on a dream, Mijarul said: "It is very important for youths to have big dreams and implement them after relating with others."

Shaheen Anam, executive director of Manusher Jonno Foundation (MJF), said: "Sometimes it seems to us that the young generation doesn't care the betterment of the society much, but this initiative by youths will help eliminate this notion."

"We want a society which has love for all, ability to appreciate and is based on justice," she added.

Shaheen Anam hoped that the month-long training would give the participants the ideas and training of inclusiveness, tolerance and justice.

She said the youths of the present generation were lucky as they were born in a liberated country, an endowment that the youths in many parts of the world such as Palestine don't have.

Sharing her experience that she left her UN job abroad in 1990 and came back to the country to do something for it, the MJF chief called on the youths to do something for their motherland.

BYLC Chairman Ejaj Ahmad also spoke at the function.

Mamata to discuss issue of immigration clearance time with Hasina

PALLAB BHATTACHARYA, New Delhi

Indian Railway Minister Mamata Banerjee yesterday said she would take up with Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina, who is scheduled to visit India later this month, the issue of reducing the time for immigration clearance on both sides of the border between India and Bangladesh.

The issue of inordinate delay at land customs on both sides of the border will be taken up during the visit of Hasina, Mamata said, adding that she had already talked to Finance Minister Pranab Mukherjee about it.

Her statement came in the wake of complaints by passengers of Kolkata-Dhaka train about the excessive delay in immigration clearance.

Mamata was speaking at a function organised for laying the foundation of a new railway track to Bongaon, which is close to India-Bangladesh border.

The 11.5-km track, she said, would cost Rs 57.16 crore and the project is expected to be completed in about two years.

Mamata is scheduled to call on Hasina during the latter's stay in Delhi.

'Formulate master plan to resolve water crisis'

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Speakers at a discussion yesterday called for formulating a master plan for water supply to ease water crisis across the country.

They also urged the government to utilise more surface water than groundwater and take immediate steps to make Buriganga and Shitalakkhya rivers free from pollution in order to use water of these rivers for supply to the city dwellers.

Nagorik Sanghati in association with Actionaid organised the discussion on 'Right to Water and Water Business' at Comrade Moni Singh-Farhad Smriti Trust Bhaban in the city.

The speakers said any move to privatise water supply system as per the prescription of the World Bank and the Asian Development Bank (ADB) would be disastrous, and urged all to resist such commercialisation of water supply.

Lawmaker Rashed Khan Menon said water management plan should involve the entire country, not only the Dhaka city.

Lower and lower middle class people are the worst victims of water crisis, he said.

Managing Director of Dhaka Wasa Taksim A Khan said they are planning to use surface water for 80 percent of water supply to the city dwellers within next ten years.

Speakers at the discussion also said that the government is losing a huge amount of revenue as the owners of the newly constructed buildings are using illegal water connections.

Nagorik Sanghati President Prof ASM Atiqur Rahman presided over the discussion.

Call to amend Upazila Act

DU CORRESPONDENT

A group of chairmen and vice-chairmen of Upazila Parishads (UZ) yesterday put forward a 10-point demand to the government, including cancellation of some sections in the Upazila Parishad Act 2009.

They placed the points from a meeting at Engineer's Institute auditorium in the city.

They said the sections barring their smooth functioning for the development in upazila level.

They also asked the government to meet the demands by December 26. If their demands go unheeded, they will announce fresh programmes by holding a council of all chairmen, they said.

The demands include -- cancellation of all circulars issued from different ministries selecting Upazila Nirbahi Officer as the president to various committees, cancelling sections 19, 20, 22 and 25 in the Upazila Parishad Act 2009 and executing section 23, forming local government commission to free the local government from the grip of local lawmakers, authorising Upazila Parishad chairmen to write down secret documents under the upazila to resist terrorism and corruption, specifying responsibilities of chairmen at the parishad and immediate execution of the court verdict on Bangabandhu murder case.

Speaking at the meeting, Abdul Mazid Photo, chairman of the Sattaria Upazila, claimed that even after 11 months of the last upazila parishad elections, the government is yet to fix duties for the chairmen and they are now passing dayside.

The chairmen alleged that due to unwillingness of a section of bureaucrats and local lawmakers, they are not fully able to perform their responsibilities to the local people.

Ataur Rahman Ata, Mohibur Rahman, Ziaul Haq Sarker and Abzal Hossain Khan, among the chairmen, spoke at the meeting.

Distribution of PSC application forms at UP level contemplated

UNB, Dhaka

The government is planning to distribute different types of job application forms under PSC, including that of BCS, from union level, aiming to reduce harassment of rural jobseekers.

"The government has planned to distribute all types of job application forms under PSC from Union Parishad level for the convenience of rural jobseekers," National Project Director of Access to Information (A2I) project of PM office and prime minister's personal secretary Nazrul Islam Khan told a function here on Friday night.

Nazrul said, "We've already consulted the Public Service Commission (PSC) to introduce the system by setting Information Service Centre (ISC) in every Union Parishad office."

He said the government always believes in dissemination of information among people to ensure its transparency, accountability and good governance.

The government has already installed 30 Information Service Centres at different Union Parishads across the country for providing services through the Internet.

People will get all sorts of information about government services in all sectors, including health, education and agriculture, from the ISCs.

Muggers attack UNDP staff

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

A gang of four muggers attacked a UNDP employee and snatched money and cellphone sets from him at Banani in the city on Friday night, leaving him critically injured.

The victim, Rubaiyat Ahmed, 33, an IT expert at the United Nations Development Project (UNDP), Dhaka office, is now undergoing treatment at the United Hospital.

Police said the muggers in a private car intercepted Rubaiyat when he was travelling in a rickshaw at Road # 25, Block # A, Banani at around 10:30pm.
