CHAITANYA CHANDRA HALDER and KAILASH SARKAR

Detained Kashmiri Islamist militant Abu Yusuf Butt, who is a leader of Jamaat-e-Islami Pakistan's armed wing Hijbul Mujahideen, confessed to a Dhaka court yesterday that he was linked to the 2004 grenade attack on an Awami League rally on Bangabandhu Avenue in the city.

Disclosing that he was present at the scene of the attack that killed 24 people and injured 300 others, the Hijbul Mujahideen leader also admitted to his close involvement in the planning and preparation of it, court sources said.

Yusuf gave the confessional statement before Metropolitan Magistrate AKM Emdadul Huq after being in remand for 14 days in four phases in the custody of the Criminal Investigation Department (CID).

The magistrate took about five hours to record the statement and then sent him back to jail.

Yusuf said he also worked with banned Islamic outfits Harkatul Jihad al Islami (Huji) and Pakistan based Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT).

On December 3, Huji founder Moulana Sheikh Abdus Salam also the chief of Islamic Democratic Party confessed to his own involvement in the August 21, 2004 carnage.

According to the sources, in the confessional statement, Yusuf also admitted that he was involved in association with LeT Bangladesh leader Moulana Tajuddin who is a brother of former BNP deputy minister Abdus Salam Pintu, in the process of getting the grenades to the throwers.

Yusuf entered Bangladesh several years ago with the help of Tajuddin and since then he was involved in Islamist militant activities in the country supplying explosives, firearms and ammunition in cooperation with detained current chief of Huji Mufti Abdul Hannan and his other associates, according to the statement.

He also admitted that he was assigned by his bosses to continue militant activities in Bangladesh and India administered Kashmir, and to traffic Islamist militants from Pakistan administered Kashmir to India administered Kashmir through Bangladesh.
