Language Movement veteran Abdul Matin to be honoured by Bangla Academy

Bangla Academy will honour Abdul Matin (popularly known as "Bhasha Matin") and Dr. Syed Yousuf Hassan, for their contributions during the Language Movement (1952).

The ceremony will be held at the Ekushey Book Fair premises at 3:30 pm today. This is the first time that the academy is honouring Language Movement veterans.

Professor Shamsuzzaman Khan, director general, Bangla Academy; National Professor Kabir Chowdhury (also the president of Bangla Academy) and poet Asad Chowdhury, among others, will be present at the programme.

"Though his mother language was Urdu, Dr. Syed Yousuf Hassan came forward to stand with us, Bengalis. He was arrested while leading a procession in support of Bangla at Tolaram College in Narayanganj," said Asad Chowdhury.

"The award recognises their contribution to the Language Movement. At this year's Ekushey programmes, we have given special emphasis on Bangla and the Language Movement," informed Abdul Hye, director of Language, Literature and Journal division, Bangla Academy.

Ringo Starr gets his own star

Hundreds of Beatles fans, young and old, turned out Monday night to watch one of the Fab Four receive his own star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

Fittingly, Ringo Starr, born Richard Starkey, was given the honour and the 2,401st star given out.

Starr was joined by Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa as the star was unveiled in front of the Capitol Records building, near those of his late bandmates John Lennon and George Harrison.

Starr quipped, "It's nice to look at a building you helped pay for."

Starr was born on July 7, 1940 in Liverpool, England. At 17, he joined the Eddie Clayton Skiffle Band and in 1959, he became part of the Raving Texans, adopting the stage name Ringo Starr because of the rings he wore and because it sounded "cowboyish."

While performing in Hamburg, Starr met The Beatles, going on to drum with them three times, then officially joining the group in August 1962, replacing Pete Best.

"I'm an only child and I joined this band and I had three brothers," Starr said. "They looked out for me and I looked out for them and we all supported each other. It was really beautiful to be part of that. And besides that, we made some great records."
