A CORRESPONDENT, Chandpur

A vested quarter is lifting sand from the Meghna River using a number of dredgers in an unplanned way for about three years although they had the permission for dredging for only five months.

Some areas near the bank of the Meghna under Chandpur Sadar upazila have been facing serious river erosion and environmental threat for the last couple of years.

When local administration objected to the illegal lifting of sand, one Selim Khan filed several writ petitions with the High Court and continued lifting sand.

The Supreme Court on March 1 issued stay order on lifting of sand but the sand lifter is not abiding by the order. BIWTA authorities also sent letter to the sand lifter asking him to stop lifting sand but he did not heed to it.
