Mindless dumping of construction materials, sewage on footpaths offer nightmare to pedestrians every day; city fathers could not care less

SHAHNAZ PARVEEN

Md Selim Miah of Paikpara, Mirpur never imagined what lay ahead for him on his way to work. He was minding his own business walking along the footpath, the next thing he knew he was struggling to escape an encounter with ghastly sewer elements.

"I was halfway into an open manhole on the footpath," said Selim squeezing his nostril, recalling the dreadful stench.

"I escaped the encounter with only a sprained knee but that is not the end of the story," added Selim.

"Before I could finish tending my bruises, another gentleman followed my lead. He reappeared with sewer sludge in lower part of his body a few minutes later," Selim went on describing his recent experience.

Many other pedestrians like Selim say walking on Dhaka footpath is becoming extremely adventurous day by day with danger lurking around in every step.

BANGABANDHU ASSASSINATION

Govt to recover money spent on 7 killers

SHAKHAWAT LITON and RASHIDUL HASAN

The foreign ministry has moved to recover Tk 21 crore from the people, who spent it on the salaries and allowances of seven convicted killers of Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman after August 15, 1975.

"Directives were already given [to the authorities concerned] to take necessary administrative measures to this effect," Foreign Minister Dipu Moni told the House recently in a written statement.

She said the seven killers received nearly Tk 3 crore each in salaries and allowances after getting appointed to Bangladesh missions abroad.

The foreign minister issued the statement in response to a call attention notice on urgent public important matter by Jatiya Samajtantrik Dal (JSD) lawmaker Shah Zikrul Ahmed.

The JSD lawmaker drew the minister's attention by the notice in the last session of parliament. He wanted to know whether the government would take measures to recover the money from the people responsible for the "illegal expenditure."

According to the rules of procedure of the Jatiya Sangsad, the foreign minister's reply to the notice was placed in the House in the form of a report with other ministers' responses to a number of notices.

Student councils mulled for primary students

Target is to create democratic culture among students

WASIM BIN HABIB

The government is going to launch student councils in public primary schools to inculcate democratic norms in the children's minds.

The student councils would be formed through elections by the students and primarily be involved in some school activities, said officials of primary and mass education ministry.

The councils would be launched in 100 primary schools in 20 upazilas of seven divisions under a pilot project, they added. The elections at the selected schools except a few under Chittagong City Corporation will be held on June 15.

"We are going to introduce student councils in some selected primary schools with the aim to help the children learn democratic practices, become tolerant of opposing views and learn how to work in a team," said Abu Alam Mohammad Shahid Khan, secretary in-charge of the ministry.

The idea is new in our country though it exists in many parts of the world, he said, adding that if successful, it will be introduced in all schools across the country gradually.

Shahid Khan believes the new initiative would help develop the overall standard of primary education.

The councils would be formed through elections for one year. The headmasters of the institutions would publish a voter list 10 days before the election, say officials of the ministry and directorate of primary education.

They add each council will have seven elected representatives. Students from

US discovers huge mineral deposits

Experts say Afghanistan can become 'Saudi Arabia of lithium' with that resource alone

AFP, Washington

US geologists have discovered nearly one trillion dollars' worth of untapped mineral deposits in Afghanistan, including vast reserves of copper and lithium, the New York Times reported yesterday.

The deposits, which also include huge veins of iron, gold, niobium and cobalt, are enough to turn the battle-scarred country into one of the world's leading mining exporters, senior US government officials told the Times.

Afghanistan's potential lithium deposits as large of those of Bolivia, which currently has the world's largest known lithium reserves, the Times said.

Lithium is a key mineral used in rechargeable batteries, as well as everything from cell phones and laptops to electric cars.
