

India, China companies most optimistic on growth

REUTERS, Singapore Asia's top companies are at their most optimistic in five quarters as robust economic growth in the region outweighs concerns about debt problems in Europe and renewed market volatility, a new Reuters index shows.

The Reuters Asia Corporate Sentiment Index stood at 78 in the second quarter -- an index above 50 indicates a positive outlook.

The index is at the highest in five quarters when compared with a Reuters' internal study of Asia business sentiment over the past year. Based on that study, the index was at 76 in the first quarter of 2010 and 45 a year ago.

More than half of the 62 companies in the survey -- market leaders in sectors such as autos, technology, finance and resources -- said they are upbeat about the outlook for their business over the next six months.

That note of optimism comes at a time when a debt crisis in the euro zone has clouded the outlook for global growth in the wake of the financial crisis.

Still, Asian economic growth has powered ahead in recent months, bolstered by resilient domestic demand and strong growth from China, the world's third-largest economy.

"There's been a lot of market concern over Greece, but if you look at Asian economic activity, that's happened without Europe," said Richard Jerram, head of economics at Macquarie Securities in Tokyo.

"There's been strong demand across the region and you can divide the contribution between China and policy stimulus during the financial crisis."

The Reuters Asia Corporate Sentiment Index was composed from a survey of top executives between June 9-15. Reuters contacted senior company officials from leading companies in the airlines, autos, building, drugs, financial, food, property, resources, retail, shipping and technology sectors.

More than half the firms surveyed from the technology and financial sector view the six-month outlook for their business as 'positive' to 'very positive'.

StanChart to buy into AgBank IPO

AFP, Hong Kong Standard Chartered will buy a chunk of Agricultural Bank of China's upcoming shares in what could be the world's largest initial public offering.

The British bank has agreed to become a so-called cornerstone investor for the initial public offering, buying as much as $500 million of the rural lender's shares, Dow Jones Newswires said, citing an unnamed source.

A Standard Chartered spokeswoman did not immediately return phone calls.

Earlier yesterday, Standard Chartered said it had signed an agreement with AgBank to collaborate on various retail and wholesale banking products.

Oil below $78

AFP, Singapore Oil prices eased in Asian trade yesterday as stock markets weakened and investors booked profits following a surge above 78 dollars a barrel, analysts said.

New York's main futures contract, light sweet crude for delivery in July, shed 60 cents to 77.07 dollars a barrel while London's Brent North Sea crude for August delivery was off 24 cents at 77.90 dollars.
