Daggubati Ramanaidu receives India's highest national cinema award

PALLAB BHATTACHARYA, New Delhi

When the official announcement of India's highest national cinema award was announced on September 10, 74-year-old Daggubati Ramanaidu was busy living life the way he has always done -- by overseeing the shooting of his latest film. And when the news about his choice for Dadasaheb Phalke award reached him at a picturesque place in his home state of Andhra Pradesh, he just wiped the sweat off his face and was humility personified. "I'm indeed honoured by the award," all that Ramanaidu told reporters on reaching the nearest major city of Visakhapatnam wrapping up the day's shoot.

The award carrying a cash prize of Rs one million will be presented to the veteran producer when national film awards are conferred by the President of India in October this year. Making his debut as a producer in 1963, Ramanaidu, during his 47-year-old career, has so far made more than 130 films -- a Guinness record -- in his mother tongue Telugu as well as in Bengali, Hindi, Oriya, Assamese, Marathi, Malayalam, Tamil, Gujarati and Bhojpuri.

Apart from films produced by him earning box office success, Ramanaidu's Bengali movie "Ashukh", directed by Rituparna Ghosh and starring Soumitra Chatterjee and Debasree Sengupta among others, won the national award for best film in 1999.

The producer is credited with launching the careers of a number of acclaimed actors like Tabu and Khushboo. His Hindi film "Prem Nagar" starring Rajesh Khanna and Hema Malini was a big commercial success and as a producer worked with a number of leading actors of Indian cinema -- Sivaji Ganesan, Rajinikanth, Kamal Hassan, Jayaprada, Jeetendra, Rajesh Khanna, Hema Malini, Rekha and Sreedevi.

Apart from producing films, Ramanaidu has set up a studio, dubbing, recording and preview facilities laboratories in Hyderabad, capital of Andhra Pradesh, and Visakhapatnam.

Having attained an age when many others could consider retiring, Ramanaidu does not seem to be in a mood to do so. He is going to make a film in Punjabi and Bengali in the coming time.

Ramanaidu said filmmaking is a passion for him and he does not mix it with the business of making movies.
