Oil rebounds

Oil was higher in Asian trade Monday, rebounding from last week's losses but further rises were likely to be limited due to lingering economic concerns, analysts said.

New York's main contract, light, sweet crude for October delivery, gained nine cents to 73.75 dollars a barrel while Brent North Sea crude for November delivery was 12 cents higher at 78.33 dollars.

Investors will be closely watching the outcome of Tuesday's meeting by the Federal Reserve when its policymakers decide on the course of monetary policy in the world's largest economy. "The economic data have been mixed," said Victor Shum, an analyst with energy consultancy Purvin and Gertz.
