Renault shares jump on sale of Volvo stake

Shares in French auto group Renault rose sharply on Thursday on news the company had sold most of its holding in Swedish truck maker Volvo AB for about 3.0 billion euros (4.1 billion dollars), reducing its debt. In late morning trading, Renault shares were up more than 6.0 percent at 38.76 euros in a slightly weaker market overall. Renault said on Wednesday it would sell 14.9 percent of Volvo AB to institutional shareholders, retaining a direct stake of 6.8 percent, together with 17.5 percent of the voting rights. Renault has held the shares since 2001 as a result of the sale of its truck business to Volvo AB. Chief executive Carlos Ghosn said the sale proceeds "will reinforce our balance sheet as we prepare for the launch next year of our new strategic plan." Analysts said a reduction of debt would give the company much more freedom to act overall at a time when the auto industry has recovered from the worst of the global slump but faces a difficult future.
