

In our regular chores we often miss out the simplest of elements that life has to offer. One of them is silence. Nature has got its own ways of portraying its simplicity while it also make us wonder on how we should see the different shades of its enigmatic aura. The photographs are taken to create a harmony and silence and even though it does not involve someone, yet we do feel the necessity of being there. The pictures are taken by Tuleen Faiaz Khan

