Fleeting Charms of Dhaka Winter

The wheel turns another full circle. Yet another year draws to a close as we the heat-beaten city-dwellers cannot help but notice the swirling changes around us.

Victory Day 2010: Looking Back to Look Forward

1971. 266 days. Three million lives. 7.83 lives per minute. An estimated ten million dislocated in neighbouring India. Countless victims of war crimes and crimes against humanity. This is just the human price a nation paid for her freedom to write a ten-letter word BANGLADESH on the world map.

Respect, is it Buried?

Stories have been told and read over and over again, photographs have been archived, and documentaries made and watched; we learnt, understood and bowed our heads in respect.
