Children at high risk of sexual abuse Reveals Unicef study

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

Children in Bangladesh are highly vulnerable to sexual abuse and exploitation, not only behind the closed doors of brothels but also in households, academic institutions and on the streets, revealed a Unicef study yesterday.

The research exposed a serious issue of sexual abuse of boys which has been hardly recognised in the past. It also stressed recognising the long-lasting effects of sexual abuse on the victim's family and society.

Unicef Bangladesh launched the study styled "Sexual Abuse and Commercial Exploitation of Children: Elements for a National Strategy and Plan of Action" at a function hosted at the Spectra Convention Centre in the city's Gulshan area.

Home Minister Shahara Khatun addressed the event as chief guest.

The study, conducted by five researchers in six months, documented case histories of 40 sexually abused girls, 28 boys and 59 girls engaged in prostitution and some other features.

It also revealed little support is offered to the traumatised person.

According to the findings, girls abused do not seek justice as they want to limit the scandal and even do not trust the prevailing judicial system.

"We need to speak out and ensure the immediate care and protection of these vulnerable children," said Michel Saint-Lot, deputy representative of Unicef Bangladesh.

Rose-Anne Papaverro, chief of child protection section of Unicef, also spoke on the occasion.

Hearing on charge framing against Sayedee adjourned

COURT CORRESPONDENT

A Dhaka court yesterday adjourned till April 25 the hearing on charge framing against detained Jamaat-e-Islami Nayebe-Ameer Delwar Hossain Sayedee in connection with a tax evasion case.

Judge Mohammad Mozammel Hossain of the Special Judge Court-3 passed the order after Sayedee's lawyer submitted a petition seeking an adjournment of the hearing.

Sayedee was produced before the court during the yesterday's hearing. In the petition, lawyer Abdur Razzak said they had earlier filed a writ petition with the High Court (HC) challenging the legality of the case.

After the hearing, the HC issued a rule upon the government to explain within four weeks why the proceedings of the case should not be declared illegal. But the hearing on the rule is now pending for hearing. So they prayed for adjournment of the hearing, said the lawyer.

On August 19 last year Deputy Tax Commissioner of the National Board of Revenue (NBR), Masuma Kahtun, filed the case against the Jamaat leader on charge of dodging income tax amounting to Tk 56.45 lakh for the fiscal years from 2005-2006 to 2009-2010.

PM to repay rickshaw puller's love for Bangabandhu tomorrow

BSS, Dhaka

Poor rickshaw-van-puller Hasmat Ali, who spent his whole life in abject miseries, is the pride of Gafargaon of Mymensingh district.

He set a unique example of generosity, liberality and rare love in society by donating a piece of land, his last resource, to Sheikh Hasina.

The extremely poor Ali had to pass most of his days either remaining half-fed or unfed when he was living at Kharua Barail village home. Finding no other way, he later moved to the capital Dhaka with his wife Ramiza Khatun and their only son Abdul Quader and took shelter at Agargaon Slum.

The sense of worries and love prompted Ali to save part of his income that eventually enabled him to buy a piece of land at a cost of Tk 24,000 at his village home at Kharua Barail at Gafargaon in Mymensingh, neither for his wife nor for his only son, but for Bangabandhu's daughter before his death in 2003.

With his savings, Ali had purchased about 6.75 decimals of land on February 22 in 2003 and got it registered in the name of Sheikh Hasina.

Ali's family said he disclosed the matter of donating the land to Sheikh Hasina to her wife Ramiza at the deathbed of Chest Diseases Hospital at Mohakhali in the capital.

The matter was later published in last year's June 2 in a daily which drew the attention of Sheikh Hasina. The PM also asked her office and the Mymensingh district administration to construct a building on the land for Ramiza's family.

To repay for the gesture of rare love for Bangabandhu by Hasmat Ali, Sheikh Hasina, now the prime minister, is going to Gafargaon tomorrow to inaugurate the building and hand over the deed of the land to Ramiza.
