

Pakistan to launch offensive in North Waziristan

Says a newspaper report

REUTERS, Islamabad

Pakistan will launch a military offensive in North Waziristan, a newspaper reported yesterday, days after US Secretary of State Hillary Clinton reiterated a US demand to tackle sanctuaries for al Qaeda and the Taliban on the Afghan border.

An understanding for an offensive in North Waziristan, the main sanctuary in Pakistan for militants fighting in Afghanistan, was reached when Clinton and Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Admiral Mike Mullen visited Pakistan last week, Pakistan's the News newspaper reported.

The United States has long demanded that Pakistan attack the region to eliminate the Haqqani network, one of the deadliest Afghan militant factions fighting US troops in Afghanistan.

Pakistan has been reluctant to do so, but it has come under more pressure and its performance in fighting militancy is under scrutiny again after it was discovered that Osama bin Laden had been living in the country.

The News quoted unidentified "highly placed sources" as saying Pakistan's air force would soften up militant targets under the "targeted military offensive" before ground operations were launched. There was no timetable given.

The newspaper cited the sources as saying that a strategy for action in North Waziristan had been drawn up some time ago and an "understanding for carrying out the operation was developed" during the Clinton visit.

The target of any North Waziristan operation would be the most violent factions of the Pakistani Taliban, which has strong ties to al Qaeda, the report said.

But the United States would almost certainly push for a move against Haqqani, too.

Pakistani officials were not immediately available for comment. A US embassy official had no immediate comment.

The newspaper said a "joint operation" with allies had been discussed but no decision had been taken because of sensitivities.

"In case the two sides agreed to go for a joint action, it would be the first time in the present war (on militancy) that foreign boots will get a chance to be on Pakistani soil with the consent of the host country."

That could be highly risky for Pakistan's generals, it said.

Iceland's volcano eruption over Say officials

AFP, Reykjavik

The eruption of Iceland's Grimsvötn volcano is considered over as there has been no activity there for more than two days, experts and officials said yesterday.

"We can't see any signs of anything but that the eruption is over. There has been no activity on our equipment since Saturday morning at 7:00 am (0700 GMT)," Steinunn Jakobsdóttir, a geologist with Iceland's Meteorological Office, told AFP.

Iceland's Department of Civil Protection also announced an end to the eruption.

"The eruption has stopped and we will be removing the precautionary label that had been assigned to Grimsvötn... There is no longer a danger (preparedness) level," Gudrun Johannesardóttir, a department spokeswoman, told AFP.

Over 100 hurt in Sri Lanka workers' protests

AFP, Colombo

More than 100 factory workers were hurt in Sri Lanka yesterday as police fired live bullets and used teargas to break up protests in the country's main free trade zone, officials said.

Workers pelted stones when police moved into to disperse protesters demanding the withdrawal of a controversial pensions bill, a police official said.

"At least one person is in a very serious condition and more than 100 people have suffered injuries," the police official, who did not wish to be named, said. Fifteen constables were also injured.

The teargas upset hives of wasps and caused more mayhem as they stung both protesters and police at Katunayake Free Trade Zone, just next to the country's only international airport, police said.

The street battles blocked the main access road to the airport and forced air travellers to take lengthy detours, police said.

Attackers targeted the compound of the Italian-led Provincial Reconstruction Team (PRT) in Herat, western Afghanistan, an AFP reporter and military spokesmen said.

Afghan Taliban attacks kill four

AFP, Herat

Twin Taliban attacks killed four people and wounded 24 others, including children, in the Afghan city of Herat and at an Italian-led Nato reconstruction team yesterday, officials said.

The blasts came just weeks before the usually peaceful historic city is to become one of the first places in the war-torn country to transition from Nato to Afghan security control nearly 10 years after the 2001 US-led invasion.

Italian press agency Ansa reported that 15 Italians had been injured, quoting parliamentary sources, but the Italian defence ministry could not confirm this when questioned by AFP.

An AFP reporter at the Provincial Reconstruction Team (PRT) in Herat said there had been a large explosion at the gate and there was a crater at the scene, with fragments of twisted metal from at least one car scattered around.

The reporter added that the attack appeared to be ongoing as he could hear gunfire.

"Four are martyred and 24 are injured," said Gulam Sayed Rashid, Herat provincial health director.

"Among the wounded we have four children and a woman. The rest are men. There are two among them (the injured) who are in military uniform, they are guards of the PRT. Three of the injured are in critical condition," he added.

Farooq Kohistani, Herat's criminal investigation chief, had earlier put the death toll at two with 26 wounded.

"There was a suicide attack at the gate of Herat PRT and a second in the city centre," he said. Kohistani did not have details on whether the dead were foreign or Afghan, or what the target of the second blast was.

The attack was claimed by the Taliban. Its spokesman Qari Yousuf Ahmadi told AFP: "Our mujahedeen are working on the operation in Herat".

BENAZIR ASSASSINATION PROBE

Court declares Musharraf a 'proclaimed offender'

PTI, Islamabad

A Pakistani anti-terrorism court yesterday declared former President Pervez Musharraf a "proclaimed offender" or fugitive for failing to cooperate with investigators probing the 2007 assassination of former premier Benazir Bhutto.

Judge Rana Nisar Ahmed of the Rawalpindi-based court declared Musharraf, currently living in self-exile outside Pakistan, a fugitive on the request of the Federal Investigation Agency.

Prosecutors told the judge during proceedings held in Adiala Jail for security reasons that they had been unable to serve an arrest warrant issued by the court for Musharraf.

The authorities in Britain, where Musharraf has been living since 2009, had not provided help in serving the warrant as that country has no extradition treaty with Pakistan, the prosecutors told the judge.

The prosecutors then asked the judge to declare Musharraf a "proclaimed offender".

Advertisements about the declaration will be published in newspapers, the judge said.
